Three Gilt Balls for F. R.
Yes, Maine Went Republican
King Alfonso Talks
The Election Is Real

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

BANKS in New York raise interest rates to seven per cent for "legitimate business," nothing to do with Wall street speculation. And they would have to charge more than seven per cent if there were too many loans for time money.

Now the New York Times declares the situation.

ANYBODY is what the law of New York state says, section 370: "The legal rate of interest shall not exceed six dollars on $100 for one year." Any bank charging more than six per cent interest is violating the law, punishable by fine. In the case of private banks, any bank charging more than six per cent would be unable to collect in court.

HOWEVER, bootleggers defy the law. Respectable business men defy the Constitution. There is apparently no good reason why eminent citizens should not turn to usury for extra profit and do their share to add contempt for law.

BROWERS should send three large gilt balls to be hung up above the federal reserve bank entrance and other ornaments to some of the big banks.

MAINE went Republican by the largest vote in history. Nevertheless Wall street was betting only 2 to 1 on Hoover yesterday. A little while ago the same street was betting 5 to 1 on Hoover. Maine is Republican and has been dry for years, barring hard cider, etc. Those Republican will not attach much importance to Maine results.

THE king of Spain has talked for talking pictures, his voice recorded by the Fox movietone. Many will be interested in a real king who actually says: "I am very glad to imitate Christopher Columbus was glad in coming to this country by my ships."

HE is a practical king, this Alfonso, with his mind on his subjects' welfare. He urges American tourists to come to Spain, telling them they will find good roads, and: "You may drive as fast as you like. I, myself, have driven too fast for 24 years."

MOST important is the fact that talking pictures will enable people to see, study and know the leading men and people on earth. Education is progress.

THE electron, mysterious, theoretical, smallest division of matter," is no imaginary "dot" in space. It possesses definite size, revolving inside the atom, as our earth revolves within the solar system.

We go around our sun once in 365 days. The electron goes around ITS sun, the nucleus at the center of the atom, billions of times every second.

YOU cannot imagine that, or believe it, and you need not, but science proves it to be a fact.

Recent important discoveries are due to Dr. Fleshman, Professor Thomson, the American, Dr. Davisson, of Columbia university, and the big telephone company laboratories.

The question may not interest moderns, but it interests science and will interest future ages more than this presidential election will—a good deal more.

YOU may not like modern crime or the sawed-off shotgun brigade. But fear remains in its way with its loyalties.

Legacies of Capone, known to his friends as "Scarface," killed Tony Lombardo, so the police say.

And many gentlemen await an opportunity to kill "Scarface."

Nevertheless, Capone "paid his respects" to Lombardo in his coffin and sent a large heart of red immortelles to the funeral.

ACCOMPANYING Capone, as he visited the corpse of his friend, were half a dozen men, each with his right hand in his coat pocket, and, as everybody knew, a gun in the right hand. That takes you back to ancient Rome, when patricians went out similarly protected.

WILLIAM J. BOWEN, president of the Bricklayers' International Union of America, denounces communism, announcing that his union has in bank $3,865,000 and has paid $10,500,000 in benefits in the last ten years.

ORGANIZED capital, intelligently managed, could have in organised labor a protecting force as efficient as Japan's Samurai were to the "higher class" that they protected.

AND organized capital is beginning to realize that what difference does it make how much you pay your workers or how few hours they work, if the public pays the bill with a profit to master.

STANLEY CO.-WARNER MERGER IS UNDER WAY

Philadelphia, Sept. 12—Plans for the merger of the Stanley Co. of America and Warner Brothers are now under way, John J. McGuirk, chairman of the board of directors of the Stanley Co., admitted today, verifying rumors current for several days. It is also said Warner Brothers are trying to effect a combine with the Keith-Albee interests and other rumors hint the Shubert interests may be included.

COUNCIL VOTES AIRPORT SITE APPROPRIATION

Adopts Ordinance Providing $12,600 for Landing Field Purchase

ACTION UNANIMOUS

140-Acre Tract West of City To Be Acquired Under Plans Outlined

Provisions for appropriations of $12,600 to purchase a landing field for Marion, were made in an ordinance passed by a unanimous vote of city council at an adjourned session at city hall, last night.

Under suspension of the rules the ordinance was given three readings and passed without a dissenting vote. It took the council just 10 minutes to make the proposed ordinance an official document of the city. All of the members of council were present with exception of President Emery Murphy. Councilman R. E. Pretyman presided in Murphy's absence.

Following a 30-day referendum period required by law, the sum of money appropriated at the session will be used for purchase of the 140-acre field, owned by H. S. Long and located west of Marion, near the plant of the Marion Water Co. according to the plans of the council.

Decision to purchase the tract was made by an agreement of council members at an executive session following the regular meeting Monday night. City Solicitor George T. Geran was instructed at that time to draw up necessary legislation for appropriation of the money to buy the field so that it could be passed at the adjourned meeting, last night.

Plan of Financing

A note for $12,600 will be issued to purchase the land, according to the ordinance. An effort will be made to have the Marion county budget commission place the appropriation in the tax levy. In event the amount is not included in the taxes for next year, bonds will be issued for payment of the note. The note will mature on or before March 15, 1929.

Provisions were made in the ordinance last night for issuance of the bonds should it become necessary. Fourteen bonds will be issued, 13 for $1,000 each and one for the sum of $350. The amount in addition to the appropriation for the purchase of the field will be included to cover six months' interest on the note.

The first bond will mature March 1, 1929 and the remainder of the bonds on March 1 and Sept. 1 of each succeeding year until Sept. 1, 1935.

An ordinance passed nearly a month ago by council for appropriation of $7,000 for purchase of a landing field, is

DEVICE TO RESCUE SUB VICTIMS FOUND

"Lung" Carries Oxygen Bag with Mouthpiece Attachment

Washington, Sept. 12—Plans were being made by the navy department today to equip all submarines with the new safety device, called the "lung," to rescue crews of undersea boats trapped below the water.

The "lung," which consists of an oxygen bag with a mouthpiece attachment, has undergone a number of successful tests. The latest being at a 155-foot depth in Chesapeake Bay off Solomon's Island, Maryland.

The inventor, Lieut. C. B. Monsen, and Joseph Eiben and Edward Kalmoski, navy divers, made the ascent safely after being lowered in a high diving bell. None suffered from diver's bends, although the pressure at the bottom was 68 pounds to the square inch.

Another test will be held next month at a depth of 225 feet.

BELIEVE ORIGIN OF LIFE MAY BE NEAR

Lower Forms May Be Brought About by Synthetic Means, Is Claim

Glasgow, Scotland, Sept. 12—That science is upon the eve of discovering the origin of life and that it may soon be possible to create life synthetically in the laboratory, was the sensational statement made before the British Association for the Advancement of Science by Prof. F. C. Donnan of London.

These statements, made at last night's session, aroused widespread discussion today among the scientists gathered here.

Professor Donnan said that the great physician, chemist and biologist, A. V. Hill, has been conducting experiments along this line and will soon have a most amazing revelation to make.

It is not claimed that scientists can create human life, but it believed that the day is near at hand when the lower forms of life may be brought about by synthetic means in the scientist's laboratory.

REPORT QUEEN MARIE MAY WED AMERICAN

Rome, Sept. 12—An unconfirmed report was received here today that Queen Marie of Roumania, widow of the late King Ferdinand and grandmother of King Michael, may become engaged to a wealthy American.

Second Day of Fair Brings Prospects of Attendance Exceeding Last Few Years

Total of 15,000 Expected by Officials Should Weather Continue Favorable; Grounds in Excellent Condition; Extensive Exhibits Displayed

A small increase in attendance was recorded at the seventy-eighth annual Marion county fair this morning as it opened for the second day.

With good weather prevailing, attendance records are expected to go over the mark set in recent years. A total attendance of 15,000 is expected by fair officials, they said today. The crowd yesterday was small, consisting largely of exhibitors and those connected with concessions.

Fears of many that the grounds would be dusty due to the lack of rain recently have been allayed, as the grounds are in good condition.

Although Marion stores will not close for the fair, with possibly one or two exceptions, banks and courthouse offices will be closed this afternoon and Thursday afternoon. Both will close at noon.

Final Touches

Final touches were put on the junior fair displays, which, officials say, are the largest ever exhibited by the organization.

"One of the outstanding achievements of the junior fair this year is the exhibit of purebred cattle," A. W. Darling said in discussing the fair. Darling is vocational agricultural instructor of the Martel public schools and is president of the junior fair board.

The junior fair exhibits are prepared and put up by vocational teachers of the six schools in the county which have vocational agricultural departments. The six schools are Martel, Green Camp, Pleasant township, La-Rue, Prospect and Waldo.

One display of special interest in the junior fair tent is the exhibit of the Green Camp school. The exhibit was prepared by Roy N. Lovett. It deals with tubercular diseases in livestock and poultry.

Just outside the junior fair tent is a smaller tent which is to serve as a gen-

DEPARTMENT HEADS DISCUSS PROGRAMS

Chairmen Meet with State Officers and District Presidents of Women's Clubs

At the meeting yesterday of the eight district presidents and the state officers of the Ohio Federation of Women's clubs with Mrs. W. N. Harder, state president of the organization and Mrs. Carl W. Sawyer, corresponding secretary, at White Oaks farm, routine business of the board was conducted and plans made for the district conferences which will be held during the months of October and November. Mrs. Harder and Mrs. Sawyer were hostesses at an informal luncheon following the meeting.

Mrs. Allen Marshall of Piqua, chairman of the International relations committee, Mrs. D. C. Bryant, of Bowling Green, chairman of the department of American Citizenship, Mrs. George C. Mitchell of Coshocton, chairman of the division of citizenship training and Mrs Depew Head, of Columbus, chairman of the department of education, met at White Oaks farm this morning and conferred with the officers and district presidents. Outlines of the work which their departments will carry out in the program this winter were given.

BREAK CUTS DOWN CITY WATER SERVICE

Shows Need of New Emergency Line, Company Officials Say

A break in the connection of the water main of Kenton av and Silver st., yesterday morning, causing a suspension of water service in some parts of the city, was pointed to by officials of the Marion Water Co., today as evidence of the need of a new emergency line running to the city.

The break was caused by the pressure of the road on the pipe, resulting from the heavy traffic at that point. To supply the city while the main was being repaired, water was run through the eight-inch distribution pipe which enters the city by Silver st.

The supply run through the eight-inch pipe was not sufficient to service all of the homes of the city during the day. A low pressure of 15 pounds, 35 pounds less than the pressure running through the 20 inch main, was given the city until the main had been repaired at 7 o'clock last night. Within an hour after the break had been repaired, the pressure was back to the normal point of 50 pounds, officials of the water company state.

In an effort to guard against a situation of this kind, the water company attempted to get the permission of city council to construct another 20-inch line up Silver st., early this summer. Because of the objections of residents on the street, city council refused the company the permission to construct the line.

Plans are now being made by the water company to install the pipe line to the city by another route.

ACOSTA, MABEL BOLL SAILING FOR NEW YORK

Paris, Sept. 12—Bert Acosta, who came to Europe with Charles A. Levine and Mabel Boll to pilot their Junkers plane on a westbound transatlantic flight, announced that he and Miss Boll would sail for New York on the liner Paris leaving Havre today. The plane will be sent to Dessau, Germany, for repairs.

GAME CANCELLED

Boston, Sept. 12—The third of a series of four double-headers between the Braves and the Giants was postponed today because of threatening weather. Two games will be played tomorrow and Friday, being an open date for both teams, they will play off the postponed games.

PLANES OFF ON NON-STOP RACE

Reconciled?

Report That Mackay Took Daughter, Wife of Irving Berlin, in Arms at Funeral Bier "Spiked" as Unfounded

Ellin Mackay Berlin and her baby above; Clarence Mackay, her father, and Irving Berlin, her husband, in insets.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12—Reports that Clarence H. Mackay, the Postal Telegraph millionaire, and his daughter, Ellin Mackay Berlin, had become reconciled were in circulation here today but no confirmation could be obtained. Father and daughter became estranged three years ago when the carefully-reared Ellin married Irving Berlin, the famous Broadway song writer, who was of a different religious faith.

A rumor that a dramatic reconciliation took place beside the bier of Mackay's dead mother, Mrs. Louise Hungerford Mackay, was spiked as an unfounded story. The report had it that Mackay had impressed a kiss of forgiveness upon his estranged daughter's lips at the bier of his mother. It was said that it was the death-bed wish of Mackay's mother that he forgive his daughter.

Tomorrow, however, Mrs. Mackay will be buried in Roslyn, L. I., and both father and daughter will attend the funeral and it is then when the public may be able to determine whether the angel of death has been able to bridge the gulf that has yawned between father and daughter. It is not unlikely that Ellin will be on the arm of her father when they enter St. Mary's Roman Catholic church at Roslyn behind the casket of Mrs Mackay.

SYRACUSE MAN IS FIRST AWAY IN AIR DERBY

SMOOTH GETAWAY

Second Ship Off Belongs to M. B. Mamer; Barely Misses Disaster

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., Sept. 12—The non-stop race of the transcontinental air derby started at 11 o'clock this morning when Clifford McMillan of Syracuse, N. Y., took off for Mines Field Los Angeles, Cal., in a Stinson-Detroiter monoplane, with C. A. Herrick as a passenger.

Nine airplanes are entered in the race.

A large crowd saw McMillan zoom into the air and head in a southwesterly direction. A larger crowd than witnessed any of the three transcontinental races which preceded the non-stop flight.

Among the spectators was Capt. Sir Hubert Wilkins, who flew from Point Barrow to Spitsbergen. Another spectator was Dean Smith, pilot of the Byrd Antarctic expedition.

North Star Off

McMillan's plane made a smooth take-off starting from the east end of the runway and dipping slightly shortly after thhe wheels left the ground at the west end. The plane disappeared to the southwestward in a slight ground haze which restricted ground visibility to about two miles.

Shortly after McMillan's take-off Oliver Le Boutellier taxied the Bellanca monoplane, "North Star," in position at the head of the runway.

Mrs. James A. Stillman, the well-known society woman, is owner of the plane. She posed for photographs before the plane but said she would not accompany Le Boutellier, whose pilot is George King.

McMillan' Stinson plane bearing race No. 35, has a Wright whirlwind motor and carried 450 gallons of gasoline.

Mamer Disaster

The second starter was M. B. Mamer who took off alone for the long flight in a Buhl Special air sedan powered by a Wright Whirlwind motor. He left the ground at 1:15 p. m.

Mamer, who comes from Spokane, Wash., barely missed disaster before getting safely into the air, on a second attempt. On his first start his plane failed to rise, but he brought it to a halt in time. On his second attempt he left his passenger, C. A. Pushee also of Spokane, behind, and succeeded in getting away.

CLASS B AWAY

Yuma, Ariz., Sept. 12—Seventeen planes darted out of Fly field here early today on the next to last leg of the class B and C transcontinental air race.

The sky racers left the runway in the order of their landing here with E. E. Ballough of Chicago, class B racer, lifting his Laird monoplane from the ground at 5:00 a. m. (mountain time).

Public School Enrollment Reaches 6,000 for First Time in Marion's History

Today's Attendance of 6,033 Establishes New Record; is 250 More Than Any Single Day's Total Registered Previous Years

For the first time in the history of Marion public schools, enrollment has reached the 6,000 mark, according to attendance records today, showing a total of 6,033 pupils enrolled in the schools here this morning.

This morning's attendance was 250 more than had ever been in school here on any one day in any previous year.

The increase was about 20 per cent more than the increase on the third day of school over the second day last year.

Fifty-three more youngsters were enrolled in city schools today than yesterday, the second day of school, when attendance records showed a total of 5,980. Enrollment is expected to show continued increase each day this week.

Enrollment records now show Harding high school to have 927 students; Central Junior high school, 696; Oakland Heights, 517; Silver, 515; Glenwood, 450; Vernon Heights, 395; Pearl, 309; Mark, 309; State, 302; Oak, 302; Oiney, 296; Greenwood, 283; Forest Lawn, 280; Lincoln, 228; Davids, 114, and North Main, 108.

CALLS ON SUNDAY

Mayor Hopes Evangelist Will Awaken Philadelphians' Consciences

Philadelphia, Sept. 12—Declaring that Philadelphia is passing through one of the greatest spiritual crises in its history, Mayor Harry A. Mackey appealed today to Billy Sunday, evangelist extraordinary and former ball player, to conduct a revival here. Through the revival, the mayor hopes that an awakening of the conscience of the people will crush outlawry where police have failed.

NOT SO DUMB!

Holds Up Payment of Marriage Fee to See Outcome

TOLEDO, Sept. 12—Municipal Judge Homer Ramey today was awaiting with more than passing interest the outcome of one matrimonial affair of which he officiated yesterday—for upon the success of the nuptial venture depends the jurist's fees.

"How much do I owe you," queried the canny bridegroom after the ceremony had been completed.

"Oh, whatever you think it is worth," Judge Ramey answered.

The "lucky" man took the jurist at his word.

"I'll wait a few weeks and see how I get along with my wife—and then I might decide you owe me money," he declared as he took his bride by the arm and strolled nonchalantly out of Judge Ramey's office.

360 PER HOUR!

Scottish Pilot Hopes to Break All Speed Records

London, Sept. 12—Three hundred and sixty miles an hour! One mile every 10 seconds!

This is the goal of Flight Lieut. D'Arcy Greig, a Scottish pilot, who is preparing for an attempt to shatter the world's speed record for seaplanes, at present held by Italy.

Flight Lieutenant Greig is in training for his contemplated attempt which will be made during the next few weeks. His plane is a supermarine S-5, which has been especially constructed for the record breaking attempt.

HISTORIAN DIES

Death of James K. Mercer Attributed to Complications

Columbus, Sept. 12—Death of James K. Mercer, 75, Ohio legislative historian, here today was attributed to a complication of diseases. Mercer was historian during the past 16 years and was well-known among state and other public officials. He had been ill for several months.

His duties included the preparation of histories of sessions of the Ohio legislature and biographies of the nation.

Survivors include his widow and two children.

VON ELM AND EVANS OUT OF TOURNAMENT

Watts Gunn Also Eliminated in National Meet; Jones Survives

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
Star Staff Correspondent

West Newton, Mass., Sept. 12—Amid the vast astonishment of a meagre gallery, which stayed home in droves because of a drizzling rain, George Von Elm and Chick Evans, former champions passed away quietly in the first round of the national amateur golf championship this morning. Another favorite, Watts Gunn, the 1925 finalist, also was eliminated, being beaten, 5 up and three to play by the unexpected name uncovered by Dr. O. F. Willis of the Portland, Oregon, star. Von Elm lost to Arthur Yates, Rochester, by three and two, and Ev as was beaten by his fellowtownsman, John Dawson, two and one.

Bobby Jones, the young amateur of the links, was one of very few reliable stars to survive a first round. Jones defeated J. Walcott Brown, New Jersey champion, by four up and four to play, but, otherwise, form was taken for a ride and forgot to come back.

FIND SECOND GIRL FINANCED BY CARR

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 12—The second mystery girl whose film career was financed by Sen. S. Carran, missing Arizona millionaire, is said to have theatrical ambitions and is now living in a fashionable apartment house.

The girl, Miss Lois Gustin, admitted that Carran was paying her expenses and said she had received $1,000 a month from him since September of last year.

President and Mrs. Coolidge Return To Washington Tanned By Vacation in West

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12—Tanned and invigorated by a summer in the Wisconsin woods, President and Mrs. Coolidge returned to Washington at 8:25 o'clock today.

They were met at the station by Secretaries Kellogg and Dwight Davis and Attorney General Sargent, Herbert Hoover, Republican presidential nominee, Hubert Work, chairman of the Republican national committee, government officials and a fair-sized crowd.

The president smiled and greeted friends affably before entering his automobile for the drive to the White House.

James J. Davis, secretary of labor, was a member of the presidential party, having boarded the special train in Pennsylvania.

The Coolidges found the White House somewhat changed since they left in June. A new tin roof was put on the executive offices, the drive to the office was widened, a new tile floor was laid in the kitchen, and all the rooms in the

DEPARTMENT SEEKS DISTRIBUTION CENSUS

Commerce Officials To Ask for Appropriation To Carry on Work

Washington, Sept. 12—Backed by national business interests the commerce department today was preparing to ask the bureau of the budget for a sufficient appropriation to carry on a national distribution census in connection with the general enumeration of population and manufacturers in 1930.

Probably one of the most essential requirements of business, an accurate knowledge of the volume of distribution of America's vast industrial and business plant, would contribute another step in the government's campaign to drive depressions and panics into the economic scrap heap.

Most of the big wastes have been eliminated from the production machine, with manufacturing applying scientific principles to other operations, but there still are vast potential savings in the excessively extravagant distributing system.

Distributors have not as a rule taken advantage of the modern knowledge of business nor have any applied to their operations the scientific technique which has permitted manufacturers materially to reduce the cost of production. As a result while there are decreases in production overhead, the entire advantage has not reached the consumed because of wasteful distribution.

No matter how early the bargain-counter clerk comes he can't avoid the rush.

Farming is a pretty good vocation if you don't want too many of the gauds and vanities of the world.

A man with the grand manner is admirable but he shouldn't talk so much as to give himself away.

A New Leadership

We told you last week of the new Packard Standard Eight, the latest addition to Packard's line of fine and luxurious motor cars.

Now we announce the improved models of the Packard Custom Eight. These are offered in nine beautiful body types on the new 140" wheelbase chassis. The prices range from $3175 for the fleet and powerful Runabout to $3850 for the distinguished Sedan-Limousine (at the factory).

The original Packard Eight was the first prominent American car to offer the eight-in-line or straight eight motor and four wheel brakes.

Today finds four wheel brakes used almost universally while twenty of this country's makers are producing straight eight motor cars. In Europe the straight eight has displaced all other types of eight-cylinder engines.

We recount this because it is indicative of Packard's engineering leadership and because it impresses that a straight eight motor car is the safest one to buy as far as depreciation is concerned.

And now the new Packard Custom Eight takes over a new engineering leadership for it offers something no other car in all the world possesses—the Packard Shock Absorbing System.

This combination of new inventions is almost magical in its effects. It makes the new Packard Eight not only the easiest riding car in the world but also the safest. This is so true that we would state it even more positively if we could find words to do so.

The new cars are available in all that the world of beautiful colors and fine fabrics affords. Their beauty of line and matchless riding quality are attended by the most luxurious upholstery even Packard can produce.

The new Packard Custom Eight has very definitely assumed a new leadership and especially in everything pertaining to comfort and safety in motor cars. We want to demonstrate this to you—and under any conditions that your ownership would ever call for. May we do so? You will be under no obligation to us in any way.

We cannot conceive of your riding in one of the new cars without wanting to have one. Your used car will help pay for it and then if you prefer to buy out of income you will find our payment plan a most agreeable one.

Ritzy Rosalie

WITH Summer almost over Rosalie is a little worried about her sun baths. There are not many days left in which to take them and when one is blonde especial care must be taken not to freckle or burn. No sunbathing between the hours of 11 and 3 say the beauty specialists, so Rosalie is on hand bright and early. This particular sunbath suit has three little ties across the back which take turns at hanging loose so Old Sol's rays can do their work thoroughly. She is holding her oilcloth cape and wearing a matching turban of oilcloth.

Name Committee In Morrow County Telephone Rate Protes

WILL WORK WITH COUNTY OFFICIALS

Representative of Company in Attendance at Meeting

ALLOWED 15 FREE CALLS

Rural Communities Object To Paying Same Rate as Larger Places

Mt. Gilead, Sept. 12—In a special meeting last night attended by a majority of the committee in charge of the telephone rate protest in this county held in the local Farm Bureau office, a committee was appointed to work with Prosecuting Attorney F. L. Myers and the county board of commissioners in representing the Morrow County people in the protest.

This action was taken after several proposals on the part of the representatives which varied from a proposal to either drop the discussion and abide by the new rates, or have the phones taken out. Reports show that although several have ordered their phones out, none of those reported were actually removed, and that in many cases the phones were in use. Others proposed to fight the case through and await the decision of the Utilities Commission in the cases in Wayne and Holmes counties in which similar conditions exist.

Named on Committee

Those named on the committee which will work with the county officials and the exchanges they represent are: Johnsville, L. R. Coulson; Iberia, McClaren; Sparta, George McKee; Marengo, F. G. Porter; Chesterville, R. J. Kunze; Cardington, F. O. Van Sickle; Mt. Gilead, C. H. Wood. C. H. Wood is an attorney here and is president of the local Kiwanis club. The motion to elect the committee was made by R. J. Kunze.

The proposal of the local phone company is to allow 15 free calls to subscribers under new rates. Fredericktown, Caledonia, Bucyrus, and perhaps Ashley may later be included in the 15 call service. Increased rates are now being collected under bond by the local company. The company was not represented at the meeting in the Farm Bureau office last night. Representative to Ohio Legislature H. F. Ault, presided over the meeting and told the results of a visit with state officials last week with R. L. Balzer, county agent for the Farm Bureau.

Allow 15 Calls

The principal objection in most cases is that under the increased rates the rural communities of but a few subscribers are limited to 15 outside calls but pay the same price as those in larger communities. The telephone corporation claims that they have conceded everything they intend to give in allowing the 15 free calls.

RAILROAD WINS

State Commission Is Without Authority to Stop Big Four's Action

Kenton, Sept. 12—The Big Four railroad won a decision over William Gramlich and the receiver for the G. R. Wilmoth Co., when the state utilities commission in Columbus ruled it was without authority to prevent the railroad from tearing up a 1500 foot spur track bordering the two business places to make way for its double tracking project.

The protesting concerns requested the commission to deny the carrier's application to convert the siding into a main line, holding that such would ruin their business.

BUCYRUS CITIZENS FORM HOOVER CLUB

Organization Effected with Election of Harry Paxton as President

Bucyrus, Sept. 12—A "Hoover for Presiednt" club, formed for the present campaign, was organized Tuesday night at a meeting held at the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce.

The following officers were elected: Harry Paxton, president; Mrs. B. Ruhl and John Zook, vice presidents; Victor Vollrath, secretary; Mrs. Carl Brown, assistant secretary; C. H. Richardson, treasurer, and Jack D. Scheckler, sergeant at arms.

Five members were appointed to act with the officers of the executive committee in the selection of 15 members to work with the committee.

A meeting will be held next Monday night for the purpose of making the selection. A report will then be made to the club.

The club program will be along the lines of general campaign work, and for the promotion of activities in Hoover's behalf.

ANNOUNCE PLANS

Ground for New Kenton Theater To Be Broken in Near Future

Kenton, Sept. 12—First ground for the construction of Kenton's proposed new theater building on the site east of the Weaver Inn, West Franklin st., will be broken in about four weeks it is announced by officials of the Kenton Amusement company following the hiring of an architect.

The building alone will cost approximately $75,000, it is estimated, and will contain in addition to the theater auditorium, two ground floor business rooms with basement.

J. T. Smith Asks Judgment in Cross Petition Filed in Mt. Gilead Court

Mt. Gilead, Sept. 12—An answer and cross petition filed in the Mansfield municipal court by J. T. Smith who was named defendant by Ralph Reese in a damage action recently following a wreck of Smith's car and Reese's truck on the Harding Highway eight miles east of Galion, denies the blame for the accident that damaged Reese's truck to the extent of $800 and in the cross petition asks a $355 judgment from Reese.

In the petition Reese charged Smith with reckless driving which Smith in his answer denied. Smith charges that Reese pulled over into the center of the road when he started to pass him.

KENTON JUDGE QUESTIONS BOYS FOR MISDEMEANOR

Kenton, Sept. 12—Seven youths ranging in age from seven years to 16, were questioned by Probate Judge Isaac McElroy Tuesday relative to the placing of obstructions for a distance of three quarters of a mile along the main line of the Erie railroad near Foraker, west of here. Discovery of the debris scattered over the rails was made by the conductor of a passing freight train a short time before the arrival of a fast mail train. Had not the discovery been made a disastrous wreck might have resulted, it was said. The youths were arrested by Hardin County officials and a railroad detective.

CONGRESSMAN TO ADDRESS MORROW COUNTY GROUPS

Mt. Gilead, Sept. 12—Congressman Brooks Fletcher will make several public appearances in Morrow County next week. On Saturday he will speak at the first of a series of bi-monthly teachers meetings that are being sponsored by Supt. H. O. Hanna of the county schools in the Junior High School auditorium. The following Sunday evening he will appear at West Point Community auditorium. He will be assisted by Mrs. Fletcher. He also spoke at White Hall school house last Friday night, being introdiced by Attorney Howard Gongwer, former principal in Mt. Gilead High School here, who is now practicing in Mansfield.

TWO MT. GILEAD BOYS IN LINE FOR FOOTBALL TEAM

Mt. Gilead, Sept. 12—Two Mt. Gilead boys bid fair to become substantial support to the Ohio Wesleyan football team this year. In all probability Merwin Breese of here will hold a steady position on the team as quarterback, and Dwight Jensen of here and Loyal Phillips of Cleveland are contesting for the position of end. F. W. Bacon, of this place, well known in athletic circles of Ohio, and who is scheduled to referee several important games of the season, will assist Coach George Gauthier at Wesleyan University this fall.

A divorce suit should be included in the wardrobe of the actress who hopes to be well advertised.

Kenton, Sept. 12—John N. Zurlinden, 63, for many years a prominent business man of this city, died Tuesday at this home, South High st, following an illness of heart trouble. He had been bedfast for more than two months.

Born in this city he had spent his entire life here and at the time of his death was owner of the Zurlinden shoe store on the east side of the public square and an elder in the Church of Christ. He has been identified with the business of Kenton for more than 40 years having succeeded his father in the retail shoe business.

Mr. Zurlinden was also active in civic life and was a member of the Chamber of Commerce since its inception. He was also a member of the Masonic lodge and its affiliated bodies.

There are surviving the window, Jennie Zurlinden; two sons, Floyd of Erie, Pa., and Zell of Kenton; five sisters, Mrs. Anthony Traut, Rapid City, S. Dak.; Mrs. Caroline Kidder, Urbana; Mrs. Albert Clucker, Flushing, N. Y.; Mrs. Robert Sigrist, Canton, and Miss Ann Zurlinden, Kenton.

Funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon at the home in charge of Rev. G. Webster Moore, Hamilton, former pastor of the Church of Christ

COURT ASSIGNS 30 CASES FOR HEARING

Appeals of Chiropractors Included in Crawford County List

Bucyrus, Sept. 12—In the Crawford county common pleas court here Monday, 30 cases were assigned dates for hearings. Eighteen of the cases are chancery cases, three being the appeal cases of S. A. Rhodes, Ross Hine and Martin Kromer, local chiropractors, against the state of Ohio.

Each of the chiropractors was fined $25 in probate court by Judge G. W. Sheetz, where they were found guilty of practicing a branch of medicine without proper state credentials. The cases will be heard Sept. 19.

Of the 12 jury cases scheduled, the first, which is the case of Thackery against Helfrich, will be heard Oct. 2 and 3

Case Decided

In a suit filed by Paul Howard, Galion, against J. W. McCarron, former local attorney, in which Howard sought to collect $522.54 alleged to have been due for services to McCarron while he was receiver of the A. Howard Co., Galion, Common Pleas Judge J. Walter Wright rendered judgment here Tuesday in favor of McCarron. The costs of the suit were taxed against the plaintiff.

ASKS COUNTY AID IN FIREBUG HUNT

Insurance Company Seeks Co-Operation Following Series of Fires

Bucyrus, Sept. 12—The Crawford County Mutual Insurance Co., which has been suffering heavy losses as a result of the series of barn fires in the now famous "fire zone" of the county, has asked that the county cooperate in the company's efforts to apprehend the party responsible for the fires.

That J. D. Cleary, Columbus detective, who spent considerable time investigating the fire situation here in the spring, be employed by the county for a few days for the purpose of investigating the situation, was the suggestion of the directors of the company.

Although no decision has been made by the county commissioners for retaining of an investigator, it is expected that the boly will take favorable action on the plan.

MAYOR PROPOSES CITY COMMISSION

Organization To Direct Bucyrus Civic Work Outlined at Rotary Meeting

Bucyrus, Sept. 12—Organization of a "planning commission" to be composed of representative citizens of Bucyrus, was suggested by Mayor Arthur Schulur at the weekly meeting of the Rotary club Tuesday at the Elks' club, as a plan that would be of great advantage to the city.

The plan as outlined by Schuler would be to have the commission lay down a program which would enable the city to finance various projects such as sewage disposal, street widening, Aumiller park and other public enterprises which are expected to develop in Bucyrus within a few years.

The suggestion of a planning commission followed the address of E. J. Songer, secretary of the local Chamber of Commerce, in which he outlined the exact and present financial condition of the chamber.

Discussion will be held at the Sept. 25 meeting of the Rotary club and some plan worked out in which the club can be of help in continuing to maintain the Chamber of Commerce in Bucyrus.

NEGRO KILLED

Detectives Open Fire on Prisoner Who Makes Break

Cleveland, Sept. 12—After stabbing and seriously wounding Everett Tears, 33, a negro, last night, J. Willie Jones, also a negro, was shot and killed when he attempted to escape from two detectives.

The detectives, Harry Hotchkiss and Peter Allen, said Jones fled along the street when they attempted to arrest him. Both fired at once and one of the bullets struck the fugitive, killing him almost instantly. On two previous occasions, Hotchkiss and Allen have killed criminals who resisted arrest. Hotchkiss also figured in a shooting affray in which a patrolman and a burglar were killed.

REFUSES TO PERMIT POLITICAL STREET BANNER

Dover, Sept. 12—Political enthusiasts here today had received a setback with the refusal of Safety Service Director Simon Kappeler to allow a Smith-Robinson banner to be displayed from an overhead wire in the public square.

Kappeler declared his decision was made on the grounds that the city eventually would resemble a "clothes line" if the initial request were granted.

It isn't "pursuit of happiness" at all; it is pursuit of distraction.

PLAN OPENING OF ALLEYS

BOWLING SEASON TO GET UNDER WAY IN MARION ON SEPT. 22

Hollis Slagle Named To Manage Plant by R. V. Keen

TEAMS MEET THURSDAY

Rest Room Being Built for Women; Alleys Arrive Today

BY KARL R. McELROY
Sports Editor, The Star

WITH Saturday, Sept. 22 set as the tentative date for the opening of the Marion Recreation Alleys on South Prospect st., plans for the start of the bowling season here are rapidly being formulated.

Eight new alleys arrived in Marion today and mechanics from the factory will be here tomorrow to start the work of installation.

Hollis Slagle, manager of the Y. M. C. A. alleys last winter, will have charge of the new bowling plant, according to R. V. Keen, Ashland, owner. Slagle has had several years experience in the operation of alleys.

Bowlers To Meet

Marion bowlers with averages above 160 will meet Thursday night at the bowling building when plans will be perfected for the organization of several leagues. At least 75 teams in the various divisions are expected to be signed up before the season opens. Special attention is being devoted to women's bowling. A rest room equipped with furniture is being constructed. Several leagues for women will be formed.

The bowling alleys will represent an investment of approximately $20,000. All the equipment is new and a large assortment of balls were received today. Two ducks of duckpins will also be used.

Two Business Rooms

Two small business rooms in the front will be used as a shoe repair shop and a barber shop. A lunch counter will be a part of the alleys. Lockers and check room will be housed in a separate space.

All carpenter work has been practically completed and everything is in readiness for the installation of the alleys. The interior is finished in white and will be well lighted. A special ventilating and heating system is being installed.

According to present plans the alleys will be opened at 10 o'clock in the morning and will be run the balance of the day.

KEYSTONES PLAY

Columbus Colored Team To Meet Eagles Here Sunday

What the revamped lineup of the Marion Eagles can do against real opposition will be seen Sunday afternoon at Lincoln park when the Columbus Keystones, Ohio's colored champions, will play.

Manager Francis Bacon will use the same lineup that defeated Richwood in a one-sided game here last Sunday. The Columbus team played here some time ago, being defeated.

RUTH BEHIND

New York, Sept. 12—Babe Ruth must hit 12 home runs in the Yankees' 18 remaining games to set a new season's mark of 61. His forty-ninth circuit clout of the current campaign, made off Lefty Grove yesterday, left him four days and one home run behind his last year's pace.

THE CIGAR THAT BROUGHT THE NICKEL BACK

Have you surrendered to the idea that five cents can no longer buy an enjoyable cigar? Here's one that not only disputes that idea, but gives your nickels the biggest cigar-buying power they ever had: Havana Ribbon.

So enormous is the production of this widely known favorite that the manufacturers are able to use tobaccos you generally find only in higher priced cigars. Think of it! . . . No bitter, raspy under-ripe top leaves of the tobacco plant. No flat, insipid over-ripe bottom leaves. No crumbling "scraps." Long-filler, fully-ripe middle leaves from heart to wrapper! Know what that means? A smoke so true, smooth, fragrant, flavorful and mellow-mild you'll scarce believe your taste. Man, find, beg or borrow a nickel! Do a quick-step to the nearest cigar counter and sail into a Havana Ribbon! Better still, corral a quarter, buy a Practical Pocket Package of five and make the whole day a song of smoke contentment.

GOLF BODY PROVIDES TWO SETS OF 18-HOLE MATCHES IN TOURNEY

Von Elm and Jones Seeded in Initial Play Today

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

WEST NEWTON, Mass., Sept. 12—They say anything can happen in an 18 hole match, so just to make sure that a lot of things will, the golf association prepared to be lavish about it today and provided two distinct series of those competitive "dog fights" for the first and second rounds of the National Amateur golf championship. Thus will begin, and as suddenly end, the annual machine gunning of the championship proper.

As an occasion, it is at once the dread of the aristocracy and the delight of the peasantry of this particular sport, for, if there is anything that figures to give the proverbial sucker an even break, it is either any empty pocket or an 18 hole golf match or both. Aristocracy, indeed. The crown prince and even the king himself are not immune to the indiscriminate sniping of these first two rounds of the amateur championship. Only when the affair is elevated to the long range target practice of 36 holes, starting tomorrow, will they feel at their royal ease.

George, Bobby Well Pleased

Still Prince George and King Robert seem to be well placed for the first round at least, Von Elm having been drawn against Arthur Yates, Rochester, and Jones against J. Walcott Brown, of New Jersey.

Von Elm was seeded at the top of the upper half of today schedule and Jones at the bottom of the lower half in a commendable endeavor to arrange a final round between the almost perennial champion and the only man who has been able to beat him out of the amateur title since 1923, however, the best laid plans of mice and golf associations often go astray. If Von Elm doesn't muff the Yates match he can comfort himself with the thought that all he will have to do in the second round this afternoon is beat the winner of the Perkins-Moe meeting.

Perkins Is Tough

This isn't being done seven days in every week, Perkins being the present champion of Great Britain and Moe the reigning sensation of the younger set.

Jones, on the other digit, has only a reasonably interesting proposition with Brown, the Jersey state champion, in the first round and, if successful, an even more formal meeting for the second with the survivor of the Gorton-Nettleblatt affair. The young man, in fact, suffered no misfortune in being cast for the lower half of the bracket with only Quimet, Finaly, McCarthy Dawson, Dolp, Somerville and Knepper are recognized company of the first class. And several of those named must be eliminated at the outset.

AFTER TITLE

Coach Bob Zuppke, who hopes to repeat last year's triumphs and bring more gridiron glory to the Orange and Blue with the eleven that he will soon whip into shape. "Butch" Nowak, who played in 238 minutes of a possible 300 last year, will be captain.

FRENCH TENNIS TEAM THREATENS TO TAKE U. S. SINGLES TITLE

Three Frenchmen Survive Third Round Matches at Forest Hills

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 12—Shadows of the advancing tricolor of France have already all but engulfed America's prospects of keeping the United States lawn tennis singles championship on this side of the Atlantic this season. With the third round matches of the men's singles championships down for decision this afternoon, no less than five sterling French players, headed by Henri Cochet, remain in the quest for the title while two of America's big gest guns, John Hennessey and Wilmer Allison, have been spiked.

Another sunset may see even further crippling of the Yankee defenders, for Francis T. Hunter, ranking No. 2 player and Davis Cup star, must play the fiery Jean Borotra this afternoon, while George M. Lott takes in Christian Boussus, another of the Frenchmen, and Dr. George King, conductor of Hennessey, tackles Jacques Brugnon, one of the alternates on the French Davis cup team.

If Hunter plays the same sort of tennis that he exhibited in his first and second round matches against Norris Williams and Julius Seligson, the fascinating Basque may be the one will drop out off the running, but the odds are admittedly against Hunter. Lott, on form, should defeat Boussus, but form has not played a major part in the tournament to date.

That almost anything can happen in this topsy-turvy tournament was shown yesterday when "Junior" Coen came within an ace of taking a set from Cochet and gave the Frenchman a stubborn battle all through the three sets.

Cochet meets Fritz Mercur of Bethlehem, Penn., today. Mercur will be no set up for the little Frenchman and will undoubtedly bother the most likely winner of the title with his chance of pace and his excellent ground strokes.

Aside from the French, the foreign invaders have fared poorly in the early rounds of the championship. H. W. (Bunny) Austin, the young English star, and Jack Crawford, the Australian junior champion, are the only invaders who have survived other than the French, and they both came dangerously close to elimination yesterday.

Austin struggled through his second five set match in two days to defeat Jack Wright of Canada and Crawford had his hands surprisingly full in his match with Ben Gorchakoff of Los Angles. Austin's worth will be proven today when he plays John Doeg of Santa Monica. Doeg has the type of game that may carry Austin off his feet in short order, for the Englishman relies not so much on the brute power put into each stroke as upon the polish and finish of his all-round game.

HUGGINS WILL SEND HOYT TO MOUND IN FINAL SERIES GAME

Giants Win Double Header from Boston To Cut Lead of Cards

CUBS ARE THIRD

Reds Set New Record for Double Plays with 175

BY LES CONKLIN

NEW YORK, Sept. 12—The high-flying Yankees declare they will bury the Athletics once and for all by making it four straight at Yankee stadium this afternoon. W. Hoyt, prominent Brooklyn undertaker, will conduct the services.

"The bunt that failed" gave the Yanks the third game, 5 to 3, snapped R Moses Grove's 14 game winning streak, and ruined the attempt of Moses to lead the A's out of the wilderness in which they have wallowed for 14 years.

The score was tied and Gehrig was on second base Manager Huggins ordered Ruth to attempt a sacrifice on the first pitch. And then to swing if the bunt failed. The bunt was foul by inches. Grove expected another one and pitched accordingly. Instead the ball sailed into the bleachers for the great Bam's forty-ninth homer.

The wallop marked the end of the straw hat season in New York. The diamond was littered with summer lids.

Cards Still First

The lead of the Yanks is now 2½ games, the same as the margin of the Cardinals over the Giants in the National league. The Cards trimmed the Reds, 6 to 3, but the Giants annexed their second consecutive double-header from the Braves and went into second place ahead of the Cubs.

Haines pitched for St. Louis. The Reds clicked off their 175th double play of the season, shattering the National league record.

In two-timing Boston, 11 to 6 and 7 to 6, the Giants collected 30 hits, of which Linstrom made eight. Jack Scott went the route for the Giants in the opener, but Benton had to rescue Hubbell in the ninth inning of the nightcap.

Patrick Percival Malone of the Cubs subdued the Pirates, 9 to 3, and drove in four runs to boot. Five Pittsburgh pitchers took a shellacking.

Brooklyn Splits

After beating the Phillies, 7 to 2, Brooklyn suffered a 4 to 3 setback at the hands of Johnny Milligan, former collegian who once pitched far above Cayuga's waters. In the nightcap Vance pitched just one ball and was charged with the defeat. Leach hit the Dazzler's first pitch into the bleachers.

A homer by Johnny Stone, rookie outfielder, staked Detroit to a 7 to 6 win over the White Sox.

Each team got seven doubles as the Browns scalped the Indians, 16 to 6. Cleveland has lost 10 straight.

Hunting Opens Soon

HAVE you obtained your hunting license?

Is the scatter gun ready for the fall campaign?

It is best to be prepared for the official hunting season in the state of Ohio opens on Sept. 16 when game laws permit shooting of ducks.

The Ohio laws coincide with federal migratory bird laws and open the season before much is to be done in the way of duck shooting in Ohio. There are at present a number of ducks which have raised broods in the state and will afford a few days of gunning at the start of the season. They will soon be cleaned out, however, and then will come a lull until the weather drives the migratory birds in southward flight.

Stay-at-homes of Ohio will not get a great deal in the way of duck shooting, as the major portion of the state is off of the lanes of travel for migratory fowl. Old timers tell us that in years past there was a very fair amount of hunting through the state, but add fine drainage of marshes, lack of food and heavy shooting have played a great part in making waterfowl scarce.

Sandusky bay and nearby shores afforded great sport at one time. It is claimed that the lowering of the lake and the introduction of carp have done much toward spoiling shooting. Carp, it is claimed, have destroyed food to a great extent. Personal observation has led me to believe that this is true.

Most old marshes remaining have taken the status of artificial hunting grounds as receding waters of Lake Erie drained many and they had to be dyked and water pumped into them. These marshes are controled by the men who payed dyking costs and are maintaining pumping operations.

Despite these conditions, ducks are not a rarity in the state, some shooting being afforded. All lakes get their share as do the streams, marshes and backwaters.

Many hunters gun on Indian lake each season and one who is on to his job may come near the bag limit in a days shooting. Marshes along the Killbuck river are good, as well as marshes in various other portions of the state.

The best proposition is to forget duck hunting for a while and plan on squirrel season, which is open for 15 days after Oct. 1. The limit this year is four squirrels. The season will be the last until 1930.

After squirrel comes rabbit season, with its 10 days of incidental bird shooting. The only birds, in addition to migratory fowl, rails and shore birds, which are few, are pheasant and Hungarian partridge. Quail have been taboo for years and years and recent legislation took the ruffed grouse from the open list, a timely measure for most localities.

Mobs are usually a criticism of the way the law has been enforced.

Financial Interests Fight for Theater Control

STOCK ACQUISITION IS OPENLY SOUGHT

Stanley Co. of America Jumps Eleven Points Overnight

TALKING MOVIE FACTOR

Warner Brothers Confirm Merger Reports; Others May Be Affiliated

BY W. S. COUSINS
Star Staff Correspondent

New York, Sept. 12—The fight for control of important American manufacturing and theatrical companies centered directly on the acquisition of stocks in the open market today and the New York stock exchange was the scene of a boiling and raging market in which the most powerful financial interests battled for supremacy. Professionals on both sides of the board bought and sold stocks in large volume, but activities in these lines were negligible compared with the clash of the industrial and financial magnates.

An over-night jump of nearly 11 points in Stanley Co. of America substantiated the accurate reports of acquisition of control of the company by Warner Brothers which have been circulating in the financial district for two weeks or more. Warner Brothers confirmed the report and stated that the minority stockholders would receive the same terms as those by which control was obtained. Keith Albee, Loew's and other amusement enterprises may be more or less closely affiliated with the consolidation later in the year.

The speculative craze for stocks of the amusement companies is comparable with that of the country-wide buying of the motor stocks in 1926 or the railroad stocks in 1924. The enormous potentialities of the talking-movie have fired the speculative imagination of stock traders in all parts of the country, and Wall Street freely admits that the bulk of the bullish sentiment is to be found at a distance from the financial district rather than just around the corner.

United States Steel's new advance to above 159, up 3 points for the day, was the outstanding event of the day in stock market circles.

LOANS UP TO $500

Money is like an umbrella—it is seldom there when you need it most. Imagine the embarrassment of "Society Sam" who took his lady-love out to dinner and, after the fifth and final course, reached in his pocket to pay the four-figure check and found only a cork-screw, a collar button and forty-two cents worth of street car tickets. And yet that's not as serious as being without money when the rent comes due, or when there are installment payments to be made or bills to be paid.

The CIty Loan has a lot of time and plenty of money for folks who are interested in getting along and who prefer to borrow in order to quickly dispose of such problems rather than to be bothered with them.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

Lake peaches could be purchased on the local produce markets today at various prices from $1.75 to $3 a bushel. Many grades were reported and steady sales were being noted in all local markets.

Peaches selling on the fruit stands at quotations lower than $2.50 a bushel were small and in some cases yet green. The best grade was large and tree-ripened but the supply was low.

An advance in the price of the lake peaches was forecast by some of the dealers today. Because of the poor crop reported in the lake peach orchards and the great demand for the variety in Ohio, the dealers expect the prices to soar within a few days.

Reports of quotations higher than those placed on the lake peaches in Marion were received from other cities of the state today.

Fall apples were also being sold at varying prices on the various fruit stands of the city. Dealers were quoting the best grade of apples from Delaware orchards at $2.50 a bushel while the poorest grades were marked as low as $1.45. A good supply of the fall apples made its apearance yesterday afternoon and a steady sale was reported.

Home-grown potatoes were selling readily at most of the stands at $1 a bushel and 25 cents a peck. Only a few dealers were selling a better grade at prices higher than $1 a bushel.

Home-grown sugar pears appeared on the market today and sold at three pounds for 25 cents. The supply was small and a good sale was noted.

FIRST MEETING

Display Men Open Schedule of Monthly Sessions

The first of monthly meetings, held during the fall, winter and spring months by the Marion Displaymen's association, took place last night in the offices of the Retail Merchants' bureau. The display was put on by Myers of the C., D. & M. Electric Co. retail store. It consisted of arranging a show window with a line of electrical appliances.

During a brief business meeting Ray Messenger was elected captain of the bowling team for the coming season. Walter Latour, president, had charge of the meeting.

BUCYRUS—Funeral services were held today for Wentz Hiler, 74-year-old Seneca county farmer, who died at his home Monday from infirmities of age. Burial was made at New Washington. He was born in Germany, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Hiler. He is survived by his widow, 10 children, four sisters and one brother.

SCORN G.O.P. CLAIMS

Hoover to Meet Coolidge

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 12—The claim so persistently advanced by Republican spokesmen at Washington that Governor Smith will not carry a single western agricultural state in November is receiving scant and scornful attention from the Democratic nominee and his advisers here.

For one thing, they don't believe it. For another they are now up to their eyes in plans for a spectacular assault on this same citadel of claimed Republican strength. And, whether it is real, assumed, or merely hopeful there is an atmosphere of considerable confidence discernible about Albany headquarters.

Some of this confidence undoubtedly has been engendered by prominent western Democrats like Ex-Senator Gilbert Hitchcock dropping into Albany for personal conferences with the governor. Without exception, these visitors have assured Governor Smith that the farm revolt against the Republican administration is not abating, that it is real, and that if he takes a "real progressive message" into the grain belt every state becomes a battle ground, irrespective of normal Republican tinges.

That accounts for some of the confidence. More of it, probably, has been evolved through an analysis of the 1924 election figures in the grain belt states which has been made for Governor Smith as a part of the preparation for his western tour which begins next Sunday.

This analysis reveals some interesting figures on the eight states which Governor Smith will visit during the next two weeks—Nebraska, Oklahoma, Kansas, Colorado, Montana, North Dakota, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

It shows that of the eight states, President Coolidge was defeated in two, despite the Republican landslide. Davis carried Oklahoma by 30,000 and LaFollette carried Wisconsin by 142,000. This pair of states has 23 electoral votes.

In three others, Nebraska, Montana, and North Dakota, President Coolidge was a minority winner; that is the combined Davis-LaFollette total which the Smith advisers deem anti-Republican and anti-administration, exceeded that of Coolidge although the president captured the electoral vote. In Nebraska, the anti-Coolidge margin was 25,000; in North Dakota, 8,000; in Montana, 21,000. This trio of states has 17 electoral votes.

Thus, of the eight states upon which Governor Smith will train his guns next week, only two, Minnesota and Kansas, gave an actual majority to the Coolidge-Dawes ticket in 1924. In Minnesota, the margin was only 25,000 out of a total vote of 815,000. In Kansas alone was the Coolidge victory impressive. There it was 173,000 in a total vote of 000,000.

These figures have made considerable impression upon Governor Smith and his advisers. As they view it, the chances of the Smith-Robinson ticket next November in the grain belt are not nearly so thin as some of the Republican spokesmen in Washington would have the country believe.

Washington, Sept. 12—A conference with President Coolidge was to feature Herbert Hoover's program today, although the Republican nominee hoped to put the final touches on his labor speech to be delivered at Newark next Monday night.

The nominee planned to greet the president and to discuss campaign matters with him at the White House during the forenoon. It may be they will reach a decision on the part the president will play in helping to elect Hoover to the presidency. The president was said to have offered to make a speech or two in behalf of the nominee but no definite decision was reached.

It appeared likely that Hoover will have to forego a contemplated fishing trip down Chesapeake Bay, owing to pressure of campaign duties. He twice has postponed the trip and unless he can get away for a few days at the end of this week, he probably will get no fishing until after the election.

Points to Air Progress

Hoover has given some attention to aviation and veteran legislation in the last few days, in addition to working on the Newark speech. He told newspapermen that congratulations were in order for the winners of the air derby in the west and he pointed to the race as indicating the "safety and reliability" of air travel under present conditions.

"The astonishing progress of aviation in this country during the last three years fully justifies the policy by which we undertook to stimulate the private development of aviation in the United States instead of granting subsidies as has been done in Europe," he said. "Our commercial planes are covering more miles per day in commercial work than those of any two counties in Europe. This is an astounding performance."

Recognizes Obligation

In talking to a group of war veterans' representatives, Hoover declared he believed the whole nation "recognizes our national obligation to our veterans". He told how the government was providing pensions and compensation to 835,292 men and women, at a total cost of $576,943,000 a year.

"This represents the one important division of the government where the policy has been justifiably to increase rather than to reduce expenditures," he said. "This is as it should be. This government must not be extravagant but it must be just. It has been so, and I should wish it to continue."

The nominee was very gratified by the results of the Maine election but he declined to comment publicly on the Republican victory. Its size, however, was hailed by his advisers as indicating a landslide Republican victory in November.

The new Buick is the New Style

Graceful contours instead of straight lines··the gleam and sparkle of brilliant colors and chrome plating instead of drab effects···the most beautiful bodies ever built··· Buick's masterpiece bodies by Fisher

At a time when motor car beauty was practically standardized—when imitation was the vogue—when there was a glaring lack of originality in body design—Buick has swept far beyond the commonplace and achieved a style which the entire country is acclaiming as the most distinctive and beautiful ever shown!

Fisher, the world's foremost builder of automobile bodies, has cooperated with Buick, the world's foremost builder of fine cars, to create a new mode—a new fashion—and so luminous is the result and so eagerly is the public welcoming it that Buick's great factories have reached new production levels in an effort to keep pace with an ever increasing demand!

Inside and out, the new Buick bodies by Fisher are the most beautiful ever built. Together with the wonderful new standards of performance introduced by the Silver Anniversary Buick, they are winning the greatest demand and the greatest preference ever enjoyed by any fine car!

The new Buick is the new style! And by that is meant, not merely a new type of beauty—not merely a thrilling turning point in body design—but a great countrywide vogue!

Marion One of Three Ohio Cities to Have Sociology Classes Formed by O.S.U.

Professor Denune Assigned as Instructor for Night School To Open Oct. 3 at Harding High Building Under Direction of University Extension Department

Marion will be one of three Ohio cities in which classes in sociology will be conducted this year by the department of commerce extension of Ohio State University, it was announced today following completion of the program.

The Marion class will be conducted at Harding High school building every Wednesday night during a three-quarter period beginning Oct. 3.

The instructor will be Professor Perry P. Denune, Ph. D., a member of the university faculty who has been assigned to this special work for this year.

The class is to be organized in connection with the O. S. U. extension program. Classes have been held here in recent years for giving instructions in accounting, retailing and banking. Sociology has been selected as the subject for this year as the result of numerous requests having come from local teachers and social workers. Many members of the Marion teaching staff are expected to be enrolled. They will be allowed credits for their attendance in the class.

Explanation of Course

The course to be taught here is described in the university extension catalogue as follows:

"This is an introductory course in sociology designed for social workers and business and professional people who desire a thorough grounding in the fundamental principles of the subject. The student will be introduced to the leading sociological concepts and through these concepts to a systematic knowledge of social phenomena. The effort throughout the course is to base all theoretical conclusions upon facts in life, and to make all theories applicable to actual social situations.

"The underlying assumption is that the behavior of human beings is affected more by the social environment in which they live than by any other single factor. This environment is studied with a view to understanding its nature —that is, the character of its structure and the processes by which it changes from age to age. Certain social forms or usages are treated in detail and an extensive classification of the social processes is made.

Factors Analyzed

"The influence of racial stock, geographical conditions, and other factors upon society, are analyzed. A study is made of primitive society in order to throw light upon the origin of our social forms and to compare primitive, with civilized, society.

"Throughout the latter part of the course, attention will be given to practical social problems, such as public health, poverty, crime, immigration and race, growth of population, eugenics, unemployment, capital-labor conflicts, education, etc. These problems are studied in the light of the sociological principles that are arrived at earlier in the course."

Two-Hour Sessions

The class will convene at 7 o'clock each Wednesday night for a two-hour session. The tuition fee will be $6.50 a quarter. Students will be required to register for two quarters and pay the fee of $13 at the first meeting, Oct. 3. Class work will start immediately following the instructor's explanation at the opening session. Students will have the option of registering for the third and final quarter. Text matter will cost about $4 for the entire course.

Other cities where the sociology course will be taught are Columbus and Dayton.

Arrangements for organizing of the class were made here yesterday by Thomas L. Kibler, director of the O. S. U. department of commerce extension, during a visit to the city.

Permission to use the Harding High school building for the extension course was officially granted by the local board of education at its last meeting.

"used cars"

STAND for a minute on the busiest street and watch the cars go by.

You cannot tell—nor do you ask yourself—whether the driver of any particular car is its first owner—or its second, or its third.

The automobile is essentially transportation, produced not for one purchaser but for as many as may own the car until its mileage is exhausted.

The public has realized this. More than 10,000,000 families today are driving cars of which they are second or third owners. Three out of five of the cars you see have been purchased as "used cars." And this year, more than ever before, there are great opportunities in unused transportation at low cost.

The cars accepted by General Motors dealers in trade offer a wide selection—and for the purchase of these cars General Motors extends the convenient GMAC Plan of credit purchase.

HOSPITAL ADEQUATE FOR PRESENT NEEDS

Recent Crowded Condition an Unusual Occurrence, Official Says

Commenting on the recent crowded condition at City hospital, Safety Director W. B. Strayer, official in charge of the hospital management stated today that the situation is only a rare occurrence and that there is no immediate need for an enlargement. All rooms at the hospital were reported filled Monday.

"Ordinarily the hospital has several of its rooms vacant," Director Strayer stated. "There is no plan for an enlargement at the present time."

Should the number of patients warrant enlargement of the hospital in the future, it is likely that the second floor of the building will be turned into patients' rooms, according to Strayer. At the present time sleeping quarters for nurses and surgical rooms are located on the second floor.

The opening of the second floor to patients would increase the yearly expenditure at the hospital by about $10,000, the safety director says. Besides the incidental expense of opening the rooms and maintaining them, six new nurses would have to be hired to care for patients on that floor.

An added expense would also be incurred in providing other quarters for the nurses, he states. Purchase of a house in the vicinity of the hospital would probably be necessary for that purpose.

eral resting place. One of the attractions there will be motion pictures and stereoptican slides. One film will depict vocational activities in the state and the other is entitled "Farm Inconveniences" and is of a humorous nature. The slides deal with the eradication of bovine tuberculosis.

First Aid Station

The Marion Red Cross chapter has erected a first aid station and is prepared to assist in emergency cases.

Under auspices of the county health commission a health demonstration is being presented by physicans and nurses from the state department of health. The demonstration consists of lectures and motion pictures. Contagious disease and child and maternal care are the topics discussed.

Those in charge of the demonstration are Dr. A. B. Lippert, chief of teh bureau of health education of the Ohio department of health, Mrs Mary Cartwright, who assists with the lecturing, Miss Luce, public health nurse and S. D. Newman, operator of the motion picture projector.

The cattle and poultry shows are said to contain more entries than in any previous year. More than 100 cattle are entered, according to fair officials. Sixty-five horses are entered in the draft class. Besides there are more than 100 horses in the race stables.

Calf Clubs Active

Calf clubs of the county have added a large number of cattle to the exhibits. Youthful members were busy with combs, brushes and clippers this morning giving their entries a final touching up before leading them into the judging ring.

Commercial displays of machinery, grave vaults, household appliances including washing machines and radios, occupy considerable space on the grounds. Concessions consisting of lunch stands and sideshow are numerous.

A few were playing the ponies on the merry-go-round as the operator tuned up the engine and mechanical organ in preparation for the rush during the next three days.

The displays of needlework, canned and baked goods, fruits, vegetables, and grains were attracting considerable attention this morning.

Directors of the historical pageant which is to have its first showing tonight completed erection of the scene supports yesterday. The last rehearsal was held last night.

FUNERAL THURSDAY

Funeral services for Irene Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Jones, of Toledo, former Marion residents, will be held at 11 o'clock Thursday morning at the home of the child's aunt, Mrs. Clifford McCoy, 248 Thew ave., with the Rev. Wiley S. Young, pastor of Fite Memorial Baptist church, in charge. Interment will be in Pleasant Hill cemetery.

PAGEANT TO BE SHOWN TONIGHT

First performance of the historical pageant being given as a feature of the Marion county fair will be presented at 8 o'clock tonight at the fairgrounds. The second and last performance will be at 8 o'clock Thursday night.

The cast is made up of more than 300 persons, from Marion, Morral, Waldo, Green Camp, Prospect and Claridon and Pleasant township.

mansion were cleaned and brightened.

President and Mrs Coolidge will remain here but a week or 10 days before leaving again for a visit to the old home in Plymouth, Vt.

Both were smiling broadly as they arrived at the mansion. Mrs. Coolidge waved to a small group which has gathered to greet them.

Confronted with a number of problems, among which is the Franco-British naval agreement, President Coolidge plunged immediately into work. His first visitor was Secretary Kellogg.

The president had instructed the state department not to take action on the naval accord until he returned to Washington. The fact that Secretary Kellogg was summoned to the White House so soon after Mr. Coolidge's arrival gave credence to reports that the president regarded the agreement as an important problem and intended to determine whether it might jeopardize the naval parity set up in the Washington arms treaty.

Mr. Coolidge also expressed an interest in the Briand-Kellogg anti-war pact which has been accepted by virtually all the nations invited to adhere.

HARRY BRENDT IS PLACED UNDER BOND

Carey Justice of Peace Finds Man Guilty of Impersonating an Officer

Upper Sandusky, Sept. 12—Harry Brendt, who was taken in custody Sept. 1, by Wyandot county officers, was arraigned before Justice of Peace W. Z. Campbell, at Carey last night, charged with impersonating an officer. He was found guilty and placed under bond of $500 which he was unable to pay. Brendt pleaded not guilty when arraigned. He was returned to the Wyandot county jail here.

Brendt was arrested when Carey officers answered a call to the Bert Allion home, near that place, where Brendt and a man whom Brendt claimed was an escaped convict had driven early the morning of Sept. 1. Brendt claimed to be a detective and phoned the Carey officers to come to the Allion home to capture the convict.

Allion was injured when Carey police fired on the car in which he was riding with Brendt and the alleged convict, after the trio had been commanded by the officers to stop. The convict, whose name, according to Brendt, is Tommy Jones, made his escape when the Allion car ran into the ditch following the shooting.

Parents of Harold Sims Informed About His Death in Missouri

Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Sims, 195 Leader st., received word yesterday from M. M. Brown, of the Centropolis Transfer Co., Liberty, Mo., telling of the circumstances surrounding the death of their son, Harold, last Thursday. The body was brought here and burial took place Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Sims were unable to secure any information regarding the circumstances of their son's death until yesterday. The letter stated the young man was instantly killed when he fell with a defective truss being erected at the gymnasium at the William Jewel college. He was working on the truss when it gave way. He was pinned underneath. James Joyce, of Liberty, Mo., who was working with Mr. Sims at the time, was seriously injured.

COUNCIL VOTES FUND FOR AIRPORT PROJECT

Adopts Ordinance Providing $12,600 for Landing Field Purchase

expected to be repealed or nullified at some future meeting of the council.

This amount was appropriated for buying a 105-acre site which is located directly north of the tract the city now plans to purchase. Decision to drop the proposal for purchase of the 105 acre site was made at the executive session of the council, Monday night when agreement for purchase of the 140-acre tract was reached.

The new site is believed to be better adapted for a landing field than the 105-acre plot. The 140-acre plot is practically square while the former site is rectangular. Takeoffs and landings can be made from both the width and length of the 140 acre site, an investigation has shown.

May Lease 32 Acres

Plans now being made by the council provide for the use of only approximately 107 acres of the tract at the present time. A section of the field containing 32 acres, situated east of the Rock Swale ditch which runs through the eastern part of the tract, may be leased as farm land until the needs of the airport are increased to warrant the use of the entire acreage.

With the field already tiled and comparatively level, only few improvements are regarded as necessary to perfect the airport. The field is now in a condition to permit immediate use, it is stated.

Following passage of the ordinance last night, preliminary plans were made for placing the field in charge of a member of the council or a department of the city after its purchase.

BUS SERVICE PLANS NEARING COMPLETION

Maag Bros. Co. Preparing for Operations To Start Oct. 6

Preparations to take over the local passenger transportation service at the expiration of the street railway franchise now held by the C., D. & M. Electric Co., are being made by the Maag Bros. Transit Co., which was given the franchise for the service in Marion at a meeting of city council several months ago.

Complete plans and schedule for the bus service, which will start in Marion Oct. 6, are expected to be announced by officials of the bus company next week. The franchise of the electric company expires Oct. 5.

Twelve buses are expected to be used in the city passenger service, according to officials of the company.

CHARGE LOWMAN IN ON SMITH ATTACKS

Believe Republican Administration Connected with Verbal Fight

New York, Sept. 12—Declaring they had definitely connected a member of the Republican administration with the wide-spread attack upon Gov. Alfred E. Smith's legislative record on moral questions, Democratic national campaign managers today brought Seymour Lowman, assistant secretary of the treasury in charge of prohibition enforcement, into the acrimonious verbal warfare begun early in the campaign by William Allen White.

Lowman's name appeared among a list of 20 references mentioned by the Rev. O. R. Miller of Albany, in his latest pamphlet relative to Smith's votes in the New York assembly between 1904 and 1914. The bulletin itself, dealing almost entirely with Smith's votes on bills affecting the saloon, was described by Miller as his answer to Smith's attack upon him in his reply to the William Allen White broadsides. White's first statement was in part based upon Miller's bulletins, circulated by the New York Civic league.

HUNDREDS POISONED BY SULPHUROUS GAS

Cloud Blown Over Halle, Germany; Many So Ill Doctors Are Necessary

Halle, Germany, Sept. 12—This city today got a taste of what it might expect in future wartime when aviators attack cities with gas.

A cloud of sulphurous gas was blown over the city from nearby legnite lines poisoning hundreds of residents, including many children. Many were made so ill they had to be treated by doctors.

The whole population was thrown into panic. It was necessary to close the schools.

MORROW NEAR DEATH

Hillsboro, Sept. 12—Col. D. Q. MR. NELSON SPEAKS ON DIAMONDS

VALUES, QUALITY, INVESTMENT, POSSIBILITIES, ETC.!!

THE price of GOOD diamonds have never been known to decrease in recent years. A good diamond, bought with judgment can be worn and enjoyed for many many years without becoming second-hand or losing its value.

Quality should always be the foremost thought when choosing diamonds as stones lacking in this essential have no intrinsic value.

The market for diamonds is world-wide, while that of even certain of the better stocks and bonds in times of stress is limited to a single exchange. The diamond is in a sense, an international security.

Sound Reasons for Diamond's Gain in Value

Earliest Writers Recognized Gem's Pre-eminence in Demand.

An International Security Conditions Today Tend to Make Diamond's Position Especially Firm.

A STUDY of the price fluctuations of any commodity is interesting, particularly one which can show as satisfactory a graph as the diamond. A straight line showing almost complete stabilization recorded for centuries, shooting sharply upward some eight years ago should be satisfying to the investigator. Although at present the rubies and emeralds outrank diamonds in value, the quantity of rubies and emeralds sold in a year is relatively small.

Arab Gave Value in 1150

The earliest money price set upon the stone which has come down to us is that of the Arab mineralogist Telfaschi (1150 A. D.). His per karat price, the equivalent of $30, probably was that of a stone, the less perfect crystal facets of which had been smoothed. The quotation of 1661 is the first reference to rose-cut stone, and that of 1750 is the first which certainly refers to a brilliant.

A study of the prices of cut stones as they appear in the accompanying table (the value of one karat stone being selected) is worthy of note, and should prove useful to jewelers who may care to show it to prospective diamond buyers in proof of the investment value of the diamond.

Growing Demand for Diamonds

As the world's wealth increases, the demand for diamonds likewise grows. At the beginning of the nineteenth century, the amount spent annually for rough diamonds did not exceed $[illegible],000,000; in 1860 it approximated $5,000,000; in 1880, $20,000,000, and at present it ranges from $60,000,000 to $[illegible],000,000.

The tremendous increase in the world's demand may be emphasized by stating that about 1807 the Portuguese Court, being in need of funds, sold 60,000 carats for about $480,000, but unsettling the market.

At present this represents but the production of three days. Some 50 years later, Dom Pedro paid the interest on the Brazilian debt to England in diamonds, and the price fell. Again in 1853 the sale by the Bank of Lisbon of $300,000 worth of diamonds adversely affected the market.

In the 35 years preceding the world war, the world's wealth was so augmented that notwithstanding a large increase in the production, the value of cut stones increased from $45 to $[illegible] per carat.

History of Diamond Discoveries

Diamonds only became reasonably common among European kings and nobles at the end of the fourteenth century.

Tavernier, late in the seventeenth century, increased the supply considerably. To the ordinary citizen, however, diamonds became fairly common only in the second quarter of the eighteenth century, when the temporarily prolific fields of Brazil began to produce a large number of diamonds.

Diamonds as Investments

In the Middle Ages when stocks and bonds were not available for the investment of surplus funds and when life and property were on the average perhaps less secure than at present, diamonds and other precious stones were hoarded by the classes who felt their position to be jeopardized.

In the years following the [illegible] recent World War, the diamond's [illegible] and its quick conversion into [illegible] assured the wealthy inhabitants of [illegible] countries threatened by Bolshevism [illegible] a capital fact here, to purchase [illegible] of diamonds. Congress may have meant well in voting a medal to Mr. Edison as the greatest practical scientist of our times, but its action would have been most decidedly more impressive had our federal lawmakers authorized a fund to pay for it. As it is, the congressional action was hardly more than a gesture, for Mr. Edison has not received the medal. Still, it's no more than fair to remember that the political demands on the time of our national lawmakers are mighty pressing in a presidential year.

An Appeal to School Youth.

If you would run an editorial in the Star calling the attention of the school youth of the city to the fact that the danger of accidents would be greatly reduced were they to cross streets at street crossings instead of at almost any angle and through traffic, I believe it would do a lot of good.

This was the substance of a suggestion made by a member of the police department who has recently given much attention to the street traffic problem.

And then he went on to express the belief that the boys and girls would be glad to cooperate with motorists in this regard were their attention called to the fact that they are not only complicating the traffic problem, but also taking on added risk of accident by crossing streets as many of them are now doing, largely, as he believes, through thoughtlessness.

And any boy or girl, young man or young woman, who will give a moment's thought to the matter, will realize that there is merit in this officer's suggestion. No humane man or woman, boy or girl—no decent motorist—wants to run anybody down. If the motorist is free from fear of causing accident to some pedestrian, it will not only add to the pleasure of driving, but also add to the safety of motorists and pedestrians, for the less tension on the average driver, the better will be his or her driving as the case may be. If the motorist has reason to believe that pedestrian cross traffic will be encountered at street crossings, the average motorist will be far more able to approach such crossings with more than ordinary vigilance, which will work for the safety of pedestrians.

The entire proposition is one looking to the safety of motorists and pedestrians alike, and while the officer's suggestion referred to the school youth of the city only, it might profitably be followed by those of major years.

It would reduce the hazard of accident mightily were all pedestrians to make a practice of crossing streets, particularly streets in and adjacent to the business sections, where view is obstructed by parked cars, at street crossings only.

Staging a Come-Back.

There can no longer be question of the fact that the city of Marion is, and for some time has been, staging a commercial and industrial revival. This is as certain as the admitted fact that for two or three years we were in a slump. How or why we fell into it does not matter now. The important thing today is that we are out of it and that the evidences multiply that we are executing a come-back.

The latest of these evidences is the business being done by the local post-office. Post-office receipts are not invariably a true barometer of a city's business, but usually they are. As a rule the fluctuations in post-office receipts are very good indices of a city's business condition. If this is granted, figures published by the post office department make interesting reading in this city, aside from the fact that they indicate the local business revival of which we have spoken.

The total postal receipts for August in fifty selected cities throughout the land were $27,951,469 20 against $25,477,761 71 for the same month in 1927, a decrease of $526,301 51 or 1 85 per cent. Some of the fifty cities showed increased receipts, Akron leading with an increase of 20 69 per cent., Memphis, Tennessee, being next with an increase of 9 21 per cent, while Minneapolis was third, showing an increase of 8 4 per cent.

Fifty industrial cities, selected like the first fifty by the post-office department as representative of different sections of the country, showed total receipts for August of $3,114,506 48, against a total business of $3,196,844.79 for the same month in 1927, a falling-off of $82,338.31, or 2.58 per cent. As in the case of the first fifty selected, some of the cities showed increases, Fargo, North Dakota, leading with a gain of 16 70 per cent., Fort Wayne, Indiana, coming next with an increase of 16 48 per cent, and Phoenix, Arizona, being third with a gain of 14.35 per cent.

Now we come to the phase of the statistics of particular local interest. While the greatest percentage of gain made in any of the fifty larger cities was the 20.69 per cent. of Akron and the greatest gain made in any of the fifty industrial cities was that of Fargo, North Dakota, 16.70 per cent, the gain in the Marion post-office receipts in August over the receipts for August of 1927 was 65 25 per cent, a gain over three times that made in any of the hundred cities selected by Postmaster General New.

The figures given out by the postmaster general show the receipts of the local post-office to have been $19,999.87 last month against $12,102.82 in August, 1927. It may be said here that the Marion post-office showed a decrease in receipts in August of 1926 under those of the same month in 1925 of 5.1 per cent. The following year—1927—the local post-office receipts showed a gain of 19.65 per cent, over those of 1926, and the $7,895.05 increase in business in August of the present year, was over the increase of 19.65 per cent. over the business of 1926, which was a greater percentage of increase than made by any of the fifty industrial cities this year and almost equal to the increase made by Akron this year which placed it at the head of the fifty larger cities in percentage of gain.

It must be said, in order that there may be no misunderstanding regarding the local figures and that no improper deductions be drawn therefrom, that about half of this remarkable increase in the August business of the local post-office resulted in the shipping into Marion of mail-order catalogues in carload lots that advantage might be taken of the zoning rates, but thousands of these catalogues have been mailed out of Marion in August and September for a number of years. Deducting this half of the increased business, the local showing is far and away ahead of any of the hundred cities selected, in some of which possibly, mail-order catalogues were sent out just as was done here.

The revival in building, the demand for new homes, the filling up of empty residences, the once-vacant storerooms now occupied, the street improvements being made, the revival of the spirit to make Marion up to date and keep it in step with the times—all these tell the same story as the postmaster general's figures. And were all other evidences of a come-back lacking, one might recognize it from the spirit which permates the city. One can actually feel it in the air.

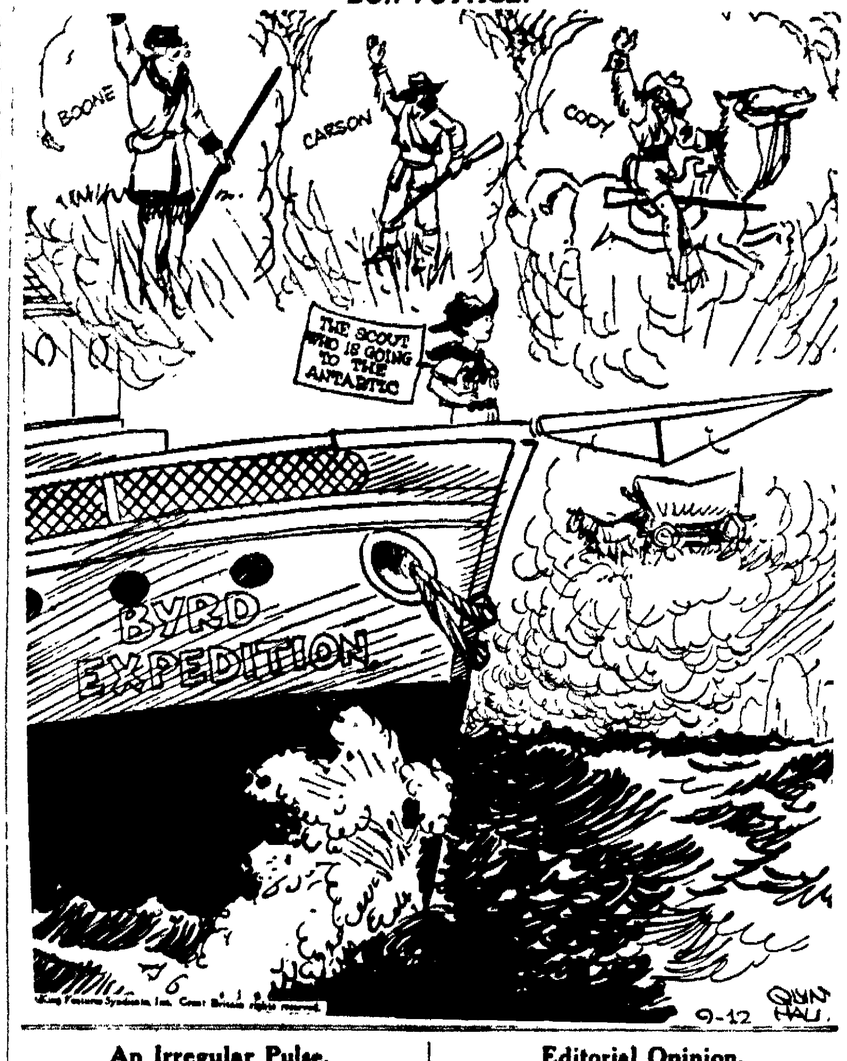
A Milwaukee despatch tells of the loss of $125,000 worth of jewelry by a Chicago salesman held up and robbed by two thugs in a hotel up there. We are fast approaching the time in this country when people having anything worth stealing will have to revert to the old feudal practice of going about with a bodyguard of retainers for their protection.

The Methodist conference held down in Springfield passed a resolution recommending abolishment of compulsory military training, especially in institutions of learning, and urging reduction of the government budgets for the army and navy. It's pitiful to note how the church is succumbing to the pacificist influences which are working to line it up with the plans and policies of the communists and others working for the overthrowing of all governments.

"BON VOYAGE."



An Irregular Pulse.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

It is not uncommon to compare the human body to a delicate and perfectly made machine. In many respects the comparison is a good one, but it can be carried too far.

I recall an electric light plant newly installed in a hospital where I served. We would set a nickel on edge on any stationary part and there was not sufficient vibration to disturb the coin. The machine operated perfectly.

You must not expect the heart to be so regular in its function. It was never intended to be. But it can adjust itself to the varying conditions of existence, overcoming obstacles, making its own repairs, replacing worn parts, and never stopping its activity almost from conception to the very end of life.

The absolutely perfect heart in an absolutely perfect person is likely to be regular in its pulsations, going steadily along, quite deliberate in its action. If the pulse drops a beat now and then, is painfully slow, or suddenly develops speed like a race horse, the symptom deserves attention.

But one of these happenings is by no means a sign of something dangerous. It is probably due to some passing thing and is of no consequence whatever. Indeed, any one of these symptoms may be a chronic and ever present condition and yet be of little importance.

There are lots of persons, really in pretty good health, who have considerable irregularity of the heart's action. The doctors give it a long, hard name—"arrhythmia." Of course, in simple language, this means nothing more than lack of rythm.

It is not at all an uncommon thing to find that the pulse of young children and of young adults, too, is quite irregular. As they grow older, the heart settles down to perfect regularity.

After a severe attack of one of the fevers, the heart's rythm may be disturbed for a time. Great care must be taken after certain diseases, for instance diphtheria and influenza. These ailments have a tendency to attack the heart muscle and sometimes they damage it seriously. Other fevers may disturb the heart for a time, but do it little real harm. The loss of rythm is likely to be restored when recovery is complete.

Most of what we call the "functional irregularities" of the heart disappear as soon as the victim exercises vigorously. When I was a young doctor I was a United States pension examining surgeon. One of our associates on the board was a wonderful doctor. He knew more about the heart than any other physician I ever met.

The examining board met in my office, on the third floor of the building. When he had an ex-service man with an irregular heart, my colleague would direct him to run down the stairs to the street and return at once, walking rapidly up the stairs. It was surprising how many disturbed and irregular hearts would become steady as a clock after this rather strenuous exertion.

Of course, seriously diseased hearts would not be benefitted by exercise. On the contrary, violent effort might do real harm. All the symptoms, including the irregularity, may be greatly increased by it.

Dyspepsia, anemia, excessive nervousness, the abuse of liquor, tobacco, tea or coffee, over-worry and over-work—these are among the causes of irregular action of the heart. Plenty of sleep and out-of-door life will help to restore health. Nothing is more important than the chewing of proper food with good teeth and leading the sort of existence we call "sensible living."

Tomorrow: Another article on the heart.

Editorial Opinion.

AMERICANS AND THEIR NAVY.

It is always painful when a cabinet minister says the wrong or inopportune thing at a critical moment, but the gaffe of Sir William Joynson-Hicks, to which we called attention last week, was, after all, of little moment in comparison with the danger that the British people may run off with the idea that the Americans while talking of peace are really ingerminating war.

* * * * * * * * * * * * *

There has never been a greater misunderstanding of a political situation than that of which Sir William Joynson-Hicks was guilty, just as there has seldom been a more remarkable situation to understand. We can remember nothing quite like it. A "big navy" program was presented to congress, and public opinion rose up and swept it away so that nothing of it remains. No doubt it may be argued that it has merely been suspended and will be revived. The refusal of the senate to consider the bill was due, however, to the desire to give Mr. Kellogg's peace pact a fair field, and as the peace pact is now on the point of being signed by all the great powers, the suspended animation of the big navy bill will probably pass into the stage of trance if not death.

If ever there was a fine opportunity for the big navy party in the United States to get its way it was after the failure of the Geneva naval conference. Disappointment in the United States had festered into a certain resentment. It was felt that Great Britain had turned down a proposal that was the natural corollary to the Washington conference.

* * * * * * * * * * * * *

What would one expect in such circumstances? One would expect that the big navy party would carry the people off their feet. At first, indeed, the big navyites made much headway. They presented a gigantic new program and were able to announce that it had President Coolidge's approval. Seventy-one ships were to be built, including twenty-five 10,000 ton cruisers.

The next thing was that the naval affairs committee in the house of representatives pulled the program to pieces. The twenty-five cruisers became fifteen. The explanation was that the committee became aware of the tremendous disturbance of public opinion. A large part of the press denounced the program, and protests poured into the state department from every corner of America. Was not the United States a peace-loving country? Why did she want a great navy? Whom was she going to fight?

When the bill had been turned inside out, Mr. Coolidge again invited congress to pass it. The senate, for the reason we have stated above, refused. The end of the matter was that a small money vote was passed for the immediate needs of the navy.—London Spectator.

FREEDOM OF THE SEAS.

The freedom of the seas is a misleading name for an antiquated and dangerous doctrine. Neither the name nor the doctrine is improved by the use made of them by Mr. Bridgeman on Saturday. In plain terms, when we talk of the freedom of the seas we are asserting the right of Great Britain to deny in time of war this freedom to other nations, a thing which under modern conditions we almost certainly have not the power to do. The United States have always claimed that, in time of war as at other times, the flag should cover the cargo, and have protested against Great Britain's refusal to admit the rights of neutral shipping. When Mr. Bridgeman reiterates that without the freedom of the seas Great Britain can be starved in two months he seems to put himself in the category of those who learn nothing, whatever they may forget. Perhaps, however, he may recall that it was the British assertion of this doctrine that nearly made the United States our opponent rather than our ally in the years of the war. It is still this claim, absurdly enough, which prevents understanding between this country and the United States. Yet it seems fairly obvious that the American doctrine which we dispute is precisely the doctrine which in time of war would be preeminently to our interest. If the flag covers the cargo, then Great Britain can never be starved, and the attempt to starve her out would at once bring in the United States on her side.—Manchester Guardian.

Volcanoes.

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

According to information collected by Science Service, there are sixty-five active volcanoes scattered over the face of the earth. I am not aware that any one has ever counted the extinct ones, but they are certainly much more numerous, and some have undergone changes which render them unrecognizable except to expert investigation.

These sixty-five vents for the escape of subterranean gases and molten lava manifestly are too few and too small to suggest that the interior of the earth is a "mass of molten fire," as some persons still continue to think. The known volcanoes all appear to act independently of one another, although there are some cases of apparent relation of activity where the vents lie in the same region. The simple fact of this general independence of action shows that the lava and other eruptive products of a volcano are not drawn from a great common reservoir of molten rock. There may be local, and more or less temporary, accumulations of liquefied rock in the earth's crust in regions where the conditions are favorable for their formation. But there is no "sea of fire" under the rind of the globe which as a whole, appears to possess the rigidity of a steel ball.

Volcanic eruptions are only pustules on the earth's face, and except for the volumes of smoke and ashes that they emit, it would generally require a powerful telescope to enable an observer on the moon to note their occurrence. In some cases, however, as for instance, in 1883, when Krakatoa, in the East Indies, blew itself to pieces and sent aloft clouds of ashes that enveloped the whole earth with a misty cover, lasting for months, the scene from the moon would have been a stupendous spectacle for lunar astronomers. But they would have to look sharply to detect the ordinary eruptions of Vesuvius, although when that famous volcano really arouses itself, as it did at the destruction of Pompeii and Herculaneum, the great plume shaken over its field of destruction would tell to the lunarians a story that they might be able to interpret if they knew something of the past history of their own little world.

There was evidently a period in the geologic past when volcanic activity occurred on the earth on a scale unknown within historical time. An appalling memorial of this is to be seen in the vast "lava plains" covering nearly 200,000 square miles in Idaho, Oregon and Washington. But in this case there was no such trifling outburst as an eruption of Vesuvius or Aetna, for instead incredible floods of molten rock poured forth and buried hills and valleys alike, changing the entire topography of a region now constituting parts of three great states. The flood hardened into a level surface of black basalt, in which now are found profound trenches and canyons cut by rivers during the several million years that have lapsed since the great outpour.

Professor William B. Scott reminds us that a similar and even larger mass of lava piled up in successive sheets by different outpourings occurs in the Deccan in India, and another one in East Africa.

As some paleontologists are now talking of ancestors of the human race living on the earth millions of years ago, one may wonder whether any of them can have been contemporaries of these calamitous exhibitions of volcanic force. At any rate, there is no sign that the earth will in the future suffer from similar visitations. The existing volcanoes are terrible enough for those who live near them, but the peril that they offer has in many cases been reduced by the study of vulcanologists who have learned to feel their pulses and to foresee the approach of a dangerous state of excitement. — Copyright, 1928, International Feature Service, Inc.

Visit to Catalina.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

Catalina, Sept. 12—This narrow twenty-[illegible] island is about two hours out in [illegible] by boat. It is owned by William W[illegible], Jr., the chewing gum merchant, as [illegible] kind of tribute to a nation's industrious [illegible]. It is extremely mountainous, the highest being 2,111 feet high.

Bought by the millionaire as a "plaything" it is said to be proving a financial bonanza. [illegible] comes a certain swank and county manner. Many movie stars own homes h[illegible] including Tom Mix, whose palatial man[illegible] has his name in huge electric lights on its r[illegible].

The eastern banker in his natty plus f[illegible] rubs elbows with the tincan tourist from [illegible] Falls, and there are plentiful cafete[illegible] along with huge palm-fronded cafe pa[illegible]. There are Tent villas and magnificent h[illegible] with expensive tariffs in a mixed medley.

The Catalina aviary is the largest bird [illegible] in the world, and here in the seven-acre s[illegible] one may see in flight the African crow[illegible] crane, flamingoes, silver and gold pheasa[illegible] Australian swan, Abyssinian peafowl, Mand[illegible] ducks and flocks of cockatoos and parrots.

The island is primarily the fisherman's p[illegible] dise. It is in these waters the nimrods [illegible] their fierce battles with the leaping tuna, [illegible] hardest fighting fish known. Sometimes [illegible] ermen are carried far out to sea. The t[illegible] range in weight from eighty to 250 pou[illegible] and it is needless to say the sport turns [illegible] some gosh-awful fibbers.

For those whose fishing is confined to [illegible] spearing of a canned sardine for the midn[illegible] lunch, there is also golf, bathing, boa[illegible] mountain climbing and horseback riding. I[illegible] ing no particular yen for these, my inte[illegible] centered in the cathedral chimes which [illegible] every quarter of an hour.

My impression of Catalina is that it is a [illegible] lightful spot to spend the day, but I would [illegible] care to begin a serial story here. Somet[illegible] about an island makes me fidgety—the s[illegible] sort of a feeling I have when an elevator [illegible] tates between floors. I'm a peninsula bo[illegible].

Along with countless other yaps, we [illegible] for a view of the submarine gardens throu[illegible] glass bottomed boat. If it were all like [illegible] burial at sea would not be so bad. Fish of all colors swim[illegible] in their glum fashion to gaze at you in[illegible] frank manner of goldfish in a bowl. On[illegible] them resembled Barney Gallant. There [illegible] beautiful shell-encrusted rocks and what se[illegible] to be gardens and groves. A deep-sea d[illegible] gives an exhibition beneath the boat. Ye[illegible] the while I could not help thinking what w[illegible] happen if a pouting mermaid hurled a nice [illegible] rock.

On the isthmus here is a resort mainta[illegible] chiefly for moving pictures "on location." [illegible] is a view all have seen at various times [illegible] the screen. These languorous places "where na[illegible] smiles all the while" are too much lik[illegible] Belasco setting for me. After a time we [illegible] for nature to frown a while. Climate can [illegible] come as monotonous as a radio announcer, [illegible] this precise moment I do not care if I do[illegible] see the sun for an entire week. And if thi[illegible] treason—choose your weapon, for I do not [illegible] lieve there is anything more entrancing t[illegible] a howling old-fashioned snow storm in M[illegible] son square on a starry December night.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

At Wells street and the Chicago river, [illegible] than 100 years ago, in what is now the [illegible] of Chicago, there was a log cabin gen[illegible] store. A few days ago the first spadefu[illegible] earth was turned for the largest business bu[illegible] ing in the world. It will be known as [illegible] Merchandise mart. It will cost $30,000 [illegible] and it will house the foremost manufactu[illegible] wholesalers and importers in this cou[illegible]. KONJOLA ENDED 11 YEARS AWFUL NEURITIS PAINS

Another Man Says New Medicine Restored His Health In Amazing Short Time

MR. PAUL ERBE

"Konjola restored my health after eleven years suffering from neuritis and stomach trouble. It is a pleasure to indorse such a medicine," said Mr. Paul Erbe, 777 South Fifth Street, Columbus, O.

"Because of dampness where I work, I contracted neuritis and I often thought that I would not be able to stand the pains any longer. To add to my suffering my stomach became disordered and I always endured awful miseries after meals. My nerves could not stand up under the strain and I was disturbed at the least unusual sound.

"Konjola was recommended to me and I decided to give it a trial. It is a blessing that I did because this medicine soon eliminated the neuritis poison so that I could do my work and get around without suffering the least pain. My stomach, also, is in perfect condition and I really enjoy my meals for since the first dgnsis Konjola has never caused the former ugly symptoms to come over me."

Konjola is different from any known remedy in the world. It is a rich complexion of [illegible]

THE marriage of Miss Mary Von Kaenal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs John Von Kaenal, East Center st., and William A. Zolg, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs William A. Zolg, Toledo, was celebrated with a solemn high mass at 7:30 o'clock, this morning, at St. Mary's Catholic church. The Rev. Father Robert J. Von Kaenal, brother of the bride, who was ordained to the priesthood in June, this year, read the marriage service and was the celebrant at the nuptial mass. He was assisted throughout the ceremony by the Rev. F. X. Cotter, pastor of St. Mary's church, as deacon, Harry Von Kaenal, also a brother of the bride, sub deacon, and Carl Willacher, Bucyrus, master of ceremonies. The sanctuary was banked with palms.

Simplicity Is Note

Simplicity was the note throughout the ceremony and at the wedding party. The bride was charming in an ivory white gown fashioned in straight lines with an overskirt of the satin touching the ankles at the sides. The drape fell in a wide circular flare at one side and in two slender points at the other. A large bow of the material held the skirt at the left side. Her full tulle veil fitted in cap shape with a wide band of shirring across the front and with shirred medallions of the tulle at the sides. Her shower bouquet was of bride's roses and gypsophilia.

Miss Emelyn Von Kaenal, sister of the bride, and Walter Zolg of Toledo, brother of the bridegroom, preceded the party in the wedding march to the altar. Miss Von Kaenal was in a bouffant robe de style taffeta frock, shading from a bodice of pale pink to a three tiered uneven hemline skirt in rose shade. She wore a hand painted hat and carried a shower bouquet of butterfly roses and gypsophilia.

The little Misses Betty and Mary Von Kaenal of Chicago, attended the bride as flower girls. Betty was in shell pink georgette with picoted petals of the material in rose above the hem. Mary was in pale green georgette over a pink slip, made in the same style as that of Betty's. Both little girls carried baskets of roses and fall flowers.

Wedding Breakfast

The bridal party entered the church to the strains of the "Wedding March," from Lohengrin. During the ceremony and as the party left the church, Robert Lightner, of Galion, sang a number of songs, accompanied by Miss Stella Schuler, also of Galion.

Covers were placed for 60 at the wedding breakfast for the immediate families and a number of relatives, served at the Hotel Harding following the ceremony.

Mrs. Zolg wore a brown satin ensemble with a soleil velour hat and accessories to match as her traveling costume. Mr. and Mrs. Zolg left on a motor trip of Ohio after which they will leave to make their home in Oakland, Cal., where Mr. Zolg is associated with the USL Battery Corp.

He had everything after my father died. My father owned half the business, but he made a queer sort of will. Instead of leaving his half to me he left everything to my uncle, with the understanding that my uncle would always look after me and that when he died I should get it all."

"The wills people make!" said Irene. "I could tell you more stories—"

"So could I," said Jim, grimly. "I'm telling you one, right now!

"You see as I got older, I got more and more bored with Dortsdale. My uncle couldn't understand that at all. He loved the place, and he loved the business. I can see why. It suited him. But it didn't suit me. I wanted to travel and see the world. I wanted to go to Harvard, for one thing—and there was no reason on earth why I shouldn't—except that he wouldn't send me there. He had some queer prejudice against colleges."

"Poor lamb!" said Irene. "And you couldn't persuade him?"

"Persuade him?" said Jim. "He was about as easy to argue with as a firehouse when the pressure at the hydrant is high! No. I never had a chance. His idea was that I had to do as I was told—he never cared to know what I wanted. Oh, I put up as hard a fight as I could, but it was no good."

"And did you make paper boxes—with your own hands?"

"I'll say I did! Made 'em—and packed 'em in crates in the shipping room and went out on the road to sell 'em—he put me through the whole works. I'm an expert on the care and feeding of paper boxes, if you ever need one!"

"I love it!" said Irene. "And then what happened?"

"I quit! I reached the point where I couldn't stand it any longer, and I quit. Walked out—with $105 and my clothes!"

"But—weren't you entitled to half the business?"

"Morally—yes. Not legally, though. It was all left to him. He was prepared to look after me—he said I could stay in the house and have my meals there. Legally he was all right as long as he took care of me, you see."

"I never heard of such a thing!" said Irene.

"He was a queer old chap," said Jim. "I couldn't help being fond of him, even after I quit. And—well, you see, I knew I'd have it all, some day. And I could wait."

"What did you do?"

"I saw life! I've had about 20 jobs in the last five years—since I left him. I made up my mind what I was going to do, you see. Mark time till I came in for the property. Not settle down anywhere—not get set. I wanted to be ready, when the time came.

"I knew I could always make a living, somehow. And I rather liked the idea of wandering along from town to town and job to job. They say a rolling stone doesn't gather any moss—but there was plenty of moss coming to me when I got through rolling, so why should I worry about that?

"And—well—it was hard, sometimes, but I managed. I've seen lots of fellows who got married when they were very young, and I couldn't see that they'd done so darned well lots of them. I thought it wasn't such a bad bunch, not being able to think about anything like that. I wanted to wait.

"I've always dreamed, you see, of coming to New York, finally. I've stayed away. I could have gone there any time, and got a job, and managed well enough. But I didn't want to. I wanted to wait till I could do the way I wanted to—"

"Like a conqueror?" she said.

"Something like that," he admitted. "You see, it wasn't as if I hadn't known all the time that, sooner or later, if I hung on, I'd have things the way I wanted them. It was always a sort of game. I never minded, no matter how hard things were."

"Have they been hard, sometimes?" she asked.

"I'll say so!" He grinned. "Lord—I can tell you what it's like to be hungry. You don't know that, really. I mean hungry—not to eat for a couple of days, and not to know how you're ever going to eat again."

"Weren't you ever tempted to go back?"

"I don't think so—not really," he said, slowly. "I'd have hated that—admitting I was licked. He expected that. I think he was fond of me, in his own way. He was just so everlastingly sure he knew best what I ought to do. That was the trouble.

"And most people would say he was right, of course, too. They'd say I'd been a darned fool, and that I'd just wasted some of the best years of my life. I was working in a bank, one time, and when I got ready to quit the president talked to me a long time. He wanted to see me stay there, you see, and he promised to make a man of me—people were always trying to do that!

"He was so decent that I told him the truth, and he was shocked. He really was. He told me no one ever got anywhere yet by waiting for dead men's money—wanted me to read 'Great Expectations' and an old book he was always talking about called 'Ten Thousand a Year.' But he couldn't understand how it was with me. No one ever has, but you."

"I like to think that," she said. "I understand, perfectly—I really do. I'd have done just what you did, if I'd been in your place."

"I know you would," he said. "You see—I—well, I've always wanted to live where I'd know the sort of people you do. I don't know how much money I'm going to have, but I know that when I have money I can make more."

"I suppose—your uncle must be dead, isn't he?"

"Yes," he said soberly. "And—well, I'm sorry. I'm sorry especially because I didn't know in time to see him again. I—well, I liked him. I got word from the lawyers, just the other day."

"Where were you?" she said.

"I was clerking in a hotel in a little place in Minnesota," he said. "And before that I'd been a clerk in a general store in another little town—the sort of store where you sell 10 yards of calico and a side of bacon and a bag of flour and a pair of shoes, all at the same time. I quit there because the boss wanted to make me a partner—I think he thought it would be nice if I married his daughter, too!"

Irene laughed.

"Didn't that really tempt you ever? Marrying some country capitalist's daughter?"

"Of course!" he said. "But I'm glad I never yielded to temptation."

"I think—yes, I think I am, too," said Irene, her eyes shining. "And I'm glad you sat next to me in the theater, too. Heavens—they're putting people out! When are you going on to New York?"

"Tomorrow, on the Century," he said.

"Oh, how nice! So are we. Come back to our car and visit us. Good night!"

The Heart Story of a Woman's Lasting Affections

BY ADELE GARRISON

Mary's Grace in Accepting Madge's Suggestion

NO sooner were the words out of my mouth than I realized that I had put my request to Harry Underwood most bannally. But it is an awkward thing to ask a man to curb his affectionate manner toward his wife when his stepdaughter is present, and only my anxiety for Lillian, so torn between her love for her child and her loyalty to her husband, had given me courage to put so impudent a query.

I did not dare look at him. He never has been noted for the evenness of his temper although, at most times, he is the soul of jovial good humor. But I knew that when he did lose control of temper, his black rage was not a pretty thing to see. I had heard the quick astonished intake of his breath at my question, was conscious that his breathing was a bit uneven, and my eyes carefully focused below his face, saw his hand, resting on the lowered open window of the car, grip it so tightly that the veins stood out like blue twisting cords.

Then the hand relaxed, and after a few seconds I was not surprised to hear his throaty chuckle. He is as mercurial as Ducky, with laughter and anger so delicately balanced that one never knows which is to triumph.

"Scared so her back teeth rattle, isn't she?" he asked quizzically, and my smile as I looked at him and nodded was a bit tremulous.

"Suppose you snap out of it," he suggested in matter-of-fact tones, "and tell your Uncle Dudley just what's on your mind. Better spill the whole thing. No use scamping the job."

But it was no part of my plan to tell Lillian's husband how concerned Katherine and I were over a possible nervous breakdown. I knew his masterfulness, and that he would at once take matters in his own hands, insist upon her stopping all work and going somewhere for a complete rest—demands which would completely upset her. I was reasonably sure that once Marion was safely in school, with the strain of witnessing her dislike for her stepfather removed, Lillian would quickly regain her usual poise and strength. If we could but tide over the few days remaining of the vacation I had faith that Marion's absorption in her school would make her forget her prejudices.

"It's only this," I began slowly. "You probably know that Marion is acting like a spoiled baby about you."

"She is?" he queried in patent surprise. "I had hoped she was getting over it. She was sweet today about the car."

"Yes, she was," I agreed, "and I think you are right. She is getting over her silly prejudices slowly. But—I have noticed that she is over-sensitive about the familiar and affectionate tone and words you use toward Lillian—oh, I don't mean—"

"Go on," he said quietly. "I'm not an absolute numskull. I understand that you are dealing with Marion's reaction alone, not the thing which causes it."

"Thank you," I breathed. "But I wonder if you can understand fully that the real reason for all this is the fact that to Marion you are an absolute stranger. She cannot realize that you were Lillian's husband and comrade during the years of her enforced exile from Marion. For years Marion has been everything to her mother. To her your entering their life is a bizarre as if you had met and married Lillian but a few weeks ago. We must give her time."

"I see," he said slowly, then added quickly: "Look here! What's the matter with my staying in the city with the Dicky-bird until it's time to come out and take Marion up to school? If Lil needs me for anything I can get out here in a jiffy. There are a million things I want to do in the city, anyway, and my going in will leave Marion and her mother together for these last days. If you can persuade Lil to drive the car they might even go away for two or three days on some trip. What do you think?"

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

TODAY was Wednesday, and it was drizzling a little when I let Jubilee down by the rope in his teeth, and all the bunch but Feeble and the Lost Bag of Tripe were in the barn, and I knew why the Lost Bag of Tripe wasn't there, and when I was feeding my face there was another ring at the phone and it was Feeble and she told me to keep my mouth shut again.

My father said she was talking to me like she was married to me, and everyone laughed but my mother, and by the time I had finished feeding my face Feeble had came and we all followed the cows over to the vacant lot and was playing a little game of ball when Mr. Scanlun came walking over from his house, and we all hollered to him and asted him if he wanted to play, and he said he didn't, and then he asted us if we had heard about the bank robbery, and Whitey said he had, and the rest of the bunch hadn't, and me and Feeble kept our faces shut.

Mr. Scanlun said if he had children he would keep them as far away from a great city as possible. He said he don't know what the world is coming to, and we were all very interested, and I wanted to make out like I wasn't, so I throwed my bat as far as I could and Jubilee ran and got it by the middle and was galloping to me with it and ran between Mr. Scanlun's feet. And he sat there blinking around, and Mrs. Scanlun poked her head up over the fence and wanted to know if he was hurt, and he said he bet all his plumbago was jarred down into his hind pockets, and she said for him to empty his hind pockets and come on in the house and finish painting the bureau. So he got up and went, limping on both feet.

Feeble said the newspaper says that the parents of the children who foiled the robbers should caution them to keep their faces shut, because the friends of the cops will kidnap them any maybe shoot them if they find out who they are, and she asted me if I was scairt, and I told her of course I am, and she said she is too, but for both of us to keep our faces shut. So then we started for the pasture, and I said that reminds me of school closing
